8 hurt in area accidents

A Sikeston man was among eight persons injured in three area traffic accidents over the weekend, according to the highway patrol.

George A. Morris, 26, of Sikeston was slightly injured at 11:50 p.m. Saturday on Highway 67 three miles north of Fredericktown when his northbound car crossed the center line, ran onto the shoulder on the wrong side, and came back across the road and struck a car in the southbound lane.

Also injured were the driver of the other car, Freeman C. Fouts, 36, of High Ridge and Mary Ruth Fouts, 35, Freeman C. Fouts, 15, and Gail Marie Fouts, 14.

All five were taken to Madison County Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

A one- vehicle car accident at 7 p.m. Saturday three miles north of Poplar Bluff on Route 0 resulted in serious injuries to a passenger, Sharon Wright, 21, of Poplar Bluff.

3 thefts reported to police

Thefts of three tape players were reported to police over the weekend.

John Cray, 324 Selma, told police that a tape player was taken from his van truck parked at the city garage on North West Street sometime between Nov. 8 and Sunday.

The tape player was valued at $93.

Guy Jenkins, 104 Sixth St., told police that a tape player was taken from his home between 2 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Friday. Entry was gained by forcing open a window, police said.

The tape player was valued at $130.

Walter Kearby, 231 Handy St., told police that a tape player was taken from his house sometime between 9:30 p.m. Feb. 2 and 9:40 a.m. Sunday. Also taken were speakers for the stereo.

The tape player was valued at $70.

Police said there was no sign of forced entry.

Cookie gets her ride

At long last, Cookie's interrupted trip to Florida resumed this morning. The long- haired dachshund became separated from her owner in early January when the family stopped in Sikeston while moving from St. Joseph to Ocala, Fla. Her trip resumed at 1:30 a.m. today when Gerald Clark, left, of St. Joseph picked up Cookie at the police station from humane officer Bob Beardsley, right, to take her to Ocala, for a reunion with the family of her owner, David Jackson. Cookie has been staying at the Beardsley home since she was found near Barkett's Big Star Market by Mrs. Peggy Bone, 928 Linn St., and turned over to Beardsley.

Police to stress methods to help crime prevention

Crime Prevention Week in Sikeston began Sunday under sponsorship of the Sikeston Exchange Club. To help area residents learn how to prevent crimes, the Sikeston police department has prepared a list of things everyone can do for personal protection and to protect property. This week — Feb. 10-16 — is also National Crime Prevention week, which is sponsored by the National Exchange Club.

Over two million burglaries occur nationally each year — one every 15 seconds — according to figures provided by the Sikeston police department.

Citizens can reduce the chance of becoming a target for burglars by using a little extra care and a little extra thought about the security of the home and neighborhood.

Most people actually make it easy for burglars to work when windows and doors are left unlocked, making entry simple even to the least experienced burglar.

Obvious signs of absence give a burglar confidence that he can work undisturbed.

Lack of interest and concern by neighbors and passers- by help can give a thief ample time to burglarize a home.

Failure to cooperate with police and failure to report losses quickly make police work more difficult and cause apprehension of the burglar to be more difficult.

Inability to describe personal property and lack of inventories make recovery and identification difficult.

Further rules prepared by the police department will be presented during the week.

Wilburn dies of injuries

Injuries received Thursday, when he was run over by a tractor- trailer truck loaded with gravel proved fatal to Melvin B. Wilburn, 56, of 302 S. Stoddard St., who died at 3:56 p.m. Friday in Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

He had been listed in critical condition since being admitted to the hospital with multiple fractures and internal injuries following the freak mishap which occurred at 2:12 p.m. Thursday at the Agrico Chemical Co. plant, 1600 W. Malone Ave.

Police said Wilburn was run over by a truck driven by John Ikerman, 36, of Benton, Box 263, who was backing up to unload 73,000 pounds of gravel.

Wilburn, a foreman at the plant, apparently had fallen

U.S. energy plan revealed today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger opened a 13-nation energy conference today with a plea for "positive and productive dialogue" between oil producing and oil consuming nations.

Addressing more than 100 delegates from 13 countries which consume 85 per cent of the world's petroleum, Kissinger outlined a seven point program for meeting the current energy crisis.

Kissinger called on the countries represented at the conference to join the United States in conserving fuel to reduce pressures on world supply.

He also suggested that efforts be made to develop alternate sources of energy and called for emergency energy sharing by the oil consuming nations.

Kissinger's seven-point program also included proposals for international financial cooperation, increased research and development on energy matters and immediate consultation and collaboration with the developing nations, whose needs he said are particularly urgent.

However, Kissinger said the ultimate goal must be to create a cooperative framework in which oil producers and oil consumers will accommodate their differences and reconcile their needs and aspirations.

The producing nations must be given a secure stake in an expanding world economy and the consuming nations a secure source of supply, Kissinger said.

He said the United States believes that another conference of consumers should be called at the foreign ministers level which would include representatives of the less-developed countries.

He said this would lead to a third conference of consumers and producers, with the entire process to be completed by May 1.

"As we look toward the end of this century we know that the energy crisis indicates the birth pains of global interdependence," Kissinger said. "Our response could well determine our capacity to deal with the international agenda of the future."

Reorganization bill will be signed this week by Bond

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Legislative action this week will be highlighted Wednesday afternoon when Gov. Christopher S. Bond will sign a reorganization bill that cleared the legislature in the special session.

A signing ceremony was scheduled for 1:30 p.m. in the Capitol rotunda.

Meanwhile plans to put reorganization into effect have been handed to both houses by the governor.

The newly passed 55 miles per hour speed limit bill that goes into effect March 4 is also expected to be signed into law by Bond this week. It was also a special session product.

Orders have already gone out to the state Highway Department to print adhesive overlays that will cover up the numerals 70 and 60 on existing signs.

The Senate president pro tem, Clinton Democrat William Cason, says he will call the Senate into a meeting as a committee of the whole to debate and write, on the Senate floor, sections amending the new open meetings law.

Sen. A. Clifford Jones, RBrentwood, saying the closed arrest records section is causing problems, succeeded on a 16-11 vote in getting preliminary approval of a bill replealing the closed records section.

Cason said he hoped to find a way to keep the records open for law enforcement agencies but prevent the public from knowing about them. The bill requires that the records are closed 30 days after the arrest, unless the arrest results in a court trial, and are expunged after the trial if the person is not convicted.

There have been reports that some judges are keeping the outcome of a case secret if the person was not convicted. But Cason said the bill was not intended to prevent public knowledge of the disposition of the case.

One of the session's major socalled "people bills," that could lead to tax relief for some Missourians, will likely receive attetnion in the Senate this week.

The bill is a repeal of the state personal property tax on household goods, passed in the House Thursday 148-0.

The repeal bill is expected to cost local governments who collected the tax about $14 million in lost revenue.

A bill to reinstate the death penalty also will receive House action this week. The bill makes execution mandatory for 12 categories of crimes. The bill's sponsor, Rep. Bob Griffin, D-Cameron, said the bill would pass a constitutional test.

There is strong opposition to the bill in both houses, however.

In Senate action, the Appropriations Committee, after completing weeks of hearings last month, will send it srecommendations of who should get what state money to the Senate floor.

Committee Chairman Norman Merrell, D-Monticello, has said in view of state deficits, agency requests will have to be cut in many areas.

Merrell has said, "we're faced with the same problems of runaway inflation during a recession. I don't have the anser to either."

Major items, in the state's expected $2 billion budget, upon which his committee will decide are: a $15 million boost in the University of Missouri budget that has been called necessary to prevent program cutbacks; a $2 million boost in the budget of the state mental hospital at Fulton, whose director called the hospital "broke;" and funds that would make the average teacher's yearly pay in Missouri $10,074 per year.

Also in the House, a bill that would ban pyramid sales schemes is up for final passage.

Voters too smart to let Watergate stain GOP, Bond tells Republicans

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond stopped short of defending President Nixon in his Lincoln Day remarks over the weekend.

But he said Missouri voters are too smart to think the Watergate scandal is "a product or reflection of the Republican Party, either nationally or in Missouri."

Asked later if he would defend Nixon's a tions in connection with Watergate, Bond replied: "I don't have the full facts to conduct a defense."

U.S. Rep. John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., now the minority leader of the House, delivered the main speech before more than 500 persons Saturday night, saying Nixon "will go down in history as being one of the great presidents of this nation."

"The administration has made great strides in many fields," including foreign policy and bringing increased employment and private assets, Rhodes said.

On Watergate, he said "Our party didn't do it. The Committee to Re-elect separated itself from our party leaders....the President has not been found to have been either the director or a participant in Watergate."

Rhodes said the Democrats are trying to destroy the administration and by "cheering on a recession" are doing a disservice to the people. He predicted that if an impeachment resolution is voted out of committee "the full House of Representatives will not pass that resolution of impeachment."

There was much private discussion at the three-day affair about who would run against incumbent Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton this year if the leading contender, Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, decides not to run. Danforth said it will be several weeks before he makes a decision on the race. He lost when trying to unseat Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., in 1970.

Thomas B. Curtis, former congressman from Webster Groves, said that while he has not announced for the race, he has obliged supporters by "not saying no."

Mrs. Rosemary Ginn of Columbia, Republican national committeewoman, was given the award for being the state's outstanding Republican last year. She said she hoped Danforth would make the race, but if he didn't, "I'd look at it."

Eagleton was criticized at the affair in connection with his having been dropped as a vice presidential candidate in 1972. Albert Rendlen, Jr., state GOP chairman, said: "If Thomas Eagleton was not good enough for Humpty Dumpty George McGovern, how can he be good enough for the people of Missouri?"

Eagleton's vote against the confirmation of Gerald Ford as vice president was criticized by U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor, R-Mo. Taylor said Eagleton was "always a little different," but then added that maybe Eagleton should know something about it. "He had the qualifications for vice president explained in detail to him one time."

Some holdouts continue

Truckers strike appears nearly over

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The often-violent strike by dozens of groups of disorganized independent truck drivers appeared all but over today.

There were several thousand holdouts who continued to insist they would not climb back in their rigs until diesel fuel prices are rolled back. But their numbers did not appear to be nearly enough to cause the economic hardships which resulted in a quick settlement proposal last Thursday in Washington, D.C.

Key federal officials said it looked to them like the strike was over.

Truck traffic climbed to near prestrike levels Sunday and early today, and violence was down sharply.

However, police in Beaumont, Tex., said a driver was showered with glass early today when a bullet slammed through the window of his moving truck. State police in Kentucky said four trucks were hit by bullets Sunday night, causing minor damage.

Earlier in the strike, violence took the lives of two drivers and several were injured.

At least 15,000 of the 100,000 persons laid off at the height of the 11-day shutdown were due back on the job today as many big rigs headed for markets loaded with meat, produce and industrial parts.

There was little doubt that the strike's effects would linger. Spot shortages of some foods were certain to keep meat and produce prices at high levels until supplies can be replenished.

Another certain effect is the six per cent surcharge independent drivers will now be getting for their cargoes. Those increases will eventually be picked up by consumers.

Most of the major organizations involved in the strike that won guaranteed supplies of diesel fuel and higher freight rates for the independent drivers urged their men to be back on the job today.

Reports received Sunday from several areas where the strike had its biggest effects indicated many of them were already there.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp, the man who got the settlement talks started, said truck traffic had increased in his state by 60 to 75 per cent. The Perlis Truck Stop, located in Cordele, Ga., on the main north-south route along the Eastern seaboard, said Sunday night its business was 70 per cent of normal.

Truck traffic was reported up in Ohio. In West Virginia, officials said it looked as if truck traffic was nearly normal. Similar reports were received from several Midwest states.

With violence sharply down, the Pennsylvania National Guard was withdrawing its patrols Sunday night. There was to be an end to Guard patrols on highways in the state which suffered what appeared to be the worst violence during the strike, although a 3,000-man Guard contingent was placed on special alert status.

In Pittsburgh, the chairman of the Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers told his membership Sunday night to resume driving today. William J. Hill, who heads what was believed to be the largest group involved in the shutdown, said the vast majority of steel haulers' locals had overwhelming approved the proposed settlement.

Groups of potato-hauling drivers approved the settlement Sunday in Wisconsin and Maine. Some of the drivers at the Maine meeting immediately climbed into loaded rigs and headed down the road.

Tommy Thompson, a strike leader in East Point, Ga., said Sunday he was urging his men back to work. On Friday Thompson vowed he and his Georgia supporters would continue striking for lower fuel prices.

An association which claims to represent all truck stop owners in Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and New Mexico voted Sunday to keep their establishments open. Voluntary and forced closings of truck stops had been a major weapon used by strikers to keep truck traffic down.

There was also continued resistance. However, it was not clear if the dissident groups would be able to keep all or most of their men off the roads. Most of the groups sprung up virtually overnight when higher costs began to pinch the independents who do not work on hourly rates. And many independents have continued to express their displeasure at belonging to any union-type organization.

A voice vote at a meeting of 1,200 independents Sunday in St. Paul, Minn., approved a continuation of the strike until 11 demands are met. Included was a demand for a rollback in diesel fuel prices from the current average of about 48 cents a gallon to 35.9 cents.

The Independent Truckers Coalition, which claims to represent 3,000 drivers, voted Sunday in Alton, Ill., to reject the settlement. The Ohio Council of Independent Truckers, a major initiator of the strike, voted in Barberton, Ohio, Sunday to stay out of their rigs.

Members of that group said they had also fired their attorney, J. Leonard Fleet, because he "sold the rank and file out." Fleet was one of the truckers' negotiators in the Washington talks.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

I finally found something to take my mind off the energy crisis — my income tax form arrived in the mail.

* * *

A REALISTIC MISSION:
YOU CAN HELP
MAKE IT HAPPEN

The American Heart Association has had one mission since its founding as a national voluntary health agency in 1948: reduction of premature death and disability due to cardiovascular diseases.

Heart diseases are too many and too complex to hope for a total cure. But a reduction of the apalling toll of lives of this modern- day epidemic is realistic. And it is being achieved in even greater proportion though the support you give to the Heart Fund campaign now in progress across the nation.

Heart Fund dollars support research leading to new surgical techniques that correct once- fatal inborn and acquired heart defects. Heart Fund dollars that financed development of the heart- lung machine now support work leading to the development of mechanical devices to augment effective circulation, such as "booster" heart pumps and pacemakers. Heart Fund dollars help make possible such things as the replacement of defective heart valves. Heart Fund dollars aid scientists in their discovery of new drugs which enhance recovery and prolong life.

At the local level, a part of each dollar you contribute goes to support programs in your community to alert citizens to the early warning signs of heart attack and stroke; to uncover hidden hypertensives and get them under treatment; and to help people reduce their risk of heart diseases. Your money comes back to you in a vast array of informational materials and community education programs. And it supports local research that could have far- reaching effects on your town, and communities around the world.

Despite these achievements, heart and blood vessel diseases continue to claim more than one million lives each year, or 53 per cent of deaths from all causes. An estimated 27 million Americans have cardiovascular diseases. And more than 875,000 died last year from heart attack or stroke.

The statistics are appalling. They must be lowered. Time and money are two major ingredients to further the mission of the Heart Association. Volunteer your time to help the Heart Association. And give generously when your Heart Fund volunteer calls. You can help make it happen.

MEDICINE AT WORK

An idea of the scope of the U. S. medical system can be gained from the Annual Report of the American Medical Association's executive vice president, Ernest B. Howard, M. D. The report was recently published in abstract form for the information of all physicians.

In the words of Dr. Howard: "The AMA is a large and complex organization whose wide- ranging, diversified activities are probably unmatched by any voluntary agency in the world." The activities of the AMA in behalf of higher health and medical care standards touch the life of virtually everone in the country. Committees of the AMA deal with such vital matters as maternal and child health, blood banking, human sexuality, scientific assembly and post graduate education, prescription drugs, medical education, foundations for medical care, rural health and so on ad infinitum. Says Dr. Howard: 'In one day at the AMA there are 700 long distance telephone calls received ...8,000 to 10,000 pieces of first class mail ... Each year we receive 50,000 requests from the general public for help and information and many thousands more ... from physicians ... Throughout the course of the year the AMA sponsors 400 scientific lectures, 400 scientific exhibits and 300 exhibits on drugs ... We have received and distributed over $35 million to medical schools in this country."

It is literally impossible to comprehend the scope of the American Medical Association. Dr. Howard's report on the activities of the Association provies a glimpse of the work-day life of medicine that the public can neither see nor grasp -- and yet it is the primary beneficiary of this monumental effort in behalf of good health.

The chief grunted, "It heap good for railroad."

TWO GOLDEN DAYS

There are two days of the week upon which and about which I never worry. Two care-free days kept sacredly free from fear and apprehension. One of these days is yesterday; with all its pains and aches, all its faults and blunders, it has passed forever beyond the reach of my recall. Save for the beautiful memories, sweet and tender, that linger like the perfume of roses in the heart of the day that has gone, I have nothing to do with yesterday. It was mine; it is God's.

And the other day I do not worry about is tomorrow, with all its possibilities, adversities, its burdens, its perils, its large promise. Its sun will rise in roseate splendor, or behind a mask of clouds. But it will rise. Tomorrow — it will be mine.

There is left for myself, then, but one day of the week — today. Any man can fight the battles of today. Any woman can carry the burdens of just one day.

Therefore, I think, and I do, and I journey for but one day at a time. And while faithfully and dutifully I run my course, and work my appointed task on this one day, God the Almighty takes care of yesterday and tomorrow.

STOPPING LEVIATHAN

That penetrating economic analyst and columnist Dr. Milton Friedman had some things to say about big government in one of his recent columns that should be instructive to a generation of voters and taxpayers who have never known anything other than big government.

Dr. Friendman calls big government "Leviathan" -- the legendary monster of the seas. So far as government spending and taxes go, he observes, "Neither a legislated ceiling nor any other administrative devices designed to improve the budgetary process -- welcome though they would be -- will halt Leviathan unless we, as citizens, once again change drastically the role that we assign to government." Back in 1930, federal government spending took four per cent of the national income; state and local spending, 11 per cent. Today the combined outgo of federal, state and local spending accounts for about 40 per cent of the income of all citizens. This is the price today's generation pays for accepting government as a keeper rathern than an umpire.

"We could never agree on the color of this ball," he pointed out, "unless you knew my point of view, and unless I realized you were looking at it from another point of ivew. Many disagreements could be settled if people would only look at both sides of the ball."

PLAIN TALK

Patriotism isn't marching behind a band and puffing out your chest. Patriotism isn't a flash of fireworks one day of the year, and then submerging one's emotions the rest of the year. Patriotism isn't found in the whooping of the crowd of maudlin flag- waving.

Patriotism is the sum of the three cardinal virtues: Faith, Hope, and Charity. Faith in the principles of our government; Hope in the future of our country; Charity toward all and malice toward none.

Patriotism is the emotion that makes a lump rise in the throat when some intrepid spirit strives to achieve something that no human being ever before achieved.

Patriotism is to be unashamed at the moisture that comes welling up in our tear-ducts with the passing of some great and nobel soul, who unselfishly devoted his life to the cause of mankind.

Patriotism is loving one's country, respecting its traditions, and honoring its people, whether high or low, rich or poor.

The situation in the airport control tower was a tense one. The controller, new to the job, was a female. The weather was bad and she was having communications difficulties with an arriving plane. "Is something wrong, Delta?" she asked nervously. "Why don't you confirm landing instructions? Is my transmission fuzzy?"

"I don't know, honey," came a pilot's voice. "How old are you?"

PEOPLE— CONTROLLERS NEVER LEARN

A couple of years ago seasoned campaigners for freedom saw the specter of price controls looming behind the demagogic bleatings of network commentators, Ralph Nader and ambitious politicians. For years, farmers and ranchers and livestock feeders had been taking a beating because of their efficiency in meeting rising demand for their meat and other food products at low prices in a free market.

Then a combination of circumstances, such as sending millions of bushels of grain to communist countries subsidized by U. S. taxpayers, plus skyrocketing demand, sent prices up at last to where more beef growers could stay in business.

Many wise voices congratulated the good sense of the people and the government in resisting rash demands for food price controls. Then the President caved into the leftwing people-controllers. Price controls went on at retail. Farmers, unable to afford the rising price of feed, had to curtail meat and poultry production.

Instead of having meat at a price at which producers could stay in business, we had lower prices-- and no meat. We did the same foolish thing after World War II. We never seem to learn. Now the Naders and the Jacksons are demanding that oil producers be driven out of business and that the little fuel, then produced be allocated politically, rather than in the marketplace. The people's voices must be heard soon if we are not to do without fuel. HLH

Gullible Rank and File:
How One Communist, Capturing One Union Smashed Strength of One Nation

PITTSBURGH-- Can a single union, strategically placed, smash the economy, sap the strength and crumble the incumbent government of a major nation? This question was asked time and again here the other night at a gathering of influential citizens in the gut of this country's vital soft coal and steel communities. The answer is-- yes.

Can it happen here? The answer again is-- yes.

Motivations in America may differ sharply from those in Britain where the Communist- dominated National Union of Mineworkers (NUM) has been attempting just that. But the impact could be the same if an increasingly undisciplined coal-digging rank- and- file continues to harass the American United Mine Workers president Arnold Miller. He is beleaguered as he attempts to convince his 110,000 followers that by reforming the union he doesn't intend to transform the coal fields into Palm Springs with Las Vegas attached.

Here the miners want instant pie in the sky. In Britain the men of the pits have followed a leader, devoted to Moscow's policies, who has sought to crush the government by provoking a national general strike which would paralyze the entire country.

Though the motivation differs, a long coal- field strike beginning at contract's end in November, also would crumble the American economy as it has Britain's under the miners' assault there.

Few Americans have bothered to look deeply into Britain's plight or how it was pushed into its economic swamp by just one man tied to the 29,000 member Communist party of Great Britain. This man is Mick McGahey, NUM's vice president, who even has boasted he would attempt to disaffect the Crown's army if it attempted to prevent sabotage of the nationalized British coal mines.

McGahey's tactics have been startlingly brilliant indeed. They have all the slick and subtle dexterity of the world Communist movement.

Small wonder. Few realize that McGahey, who has whipped the United Kingdom into chaos, is a top member of the British Communist Party's Political Bureau (Politburo). There is solid reason to believe he could not hold this post without the approval of the USSR Communist party central committee.

His power base is the Scottish miners federation. And I recall when I was at a Glasgow (Scotland) labor banquet, not too long ago, I sat cheek by jowl with a chap who was one of the miners' union publication's top editors. He spoke of himself as an avowed Communist. He had as little use for the Labor party as he did for the Conservatives. He loathed America.

Communist control of the British miners goes a long way back. But suffice to pick this story up in 1966 when the Communist party organized a front called "The Liaison Committee For the Defense of Trade Unions." Its objective was to push the 10- million-member Trades Union Congress (TUC, the counterpart of the AFL- CIO) far to the left. McGahey, one of the Liaison Committee leaders, planted his people in many miners branches (locals). There, as here, few members turn out for meetings. So the Communists easily pushed through their resolutions on everything from war to a ban on overtime work in the mines.

Thus at a strategic moment, when the miners began their fight against Britain's wage-price control Stage (Phase) 3, McGahey had enough resolutions calling for the ban on overtime work (very essential in oil- short Britian) to boast:

"The unanimous vote on the (miners) National Executive Committee did not occur because every individual member personally wanted it that way. The vote occurred because the currents of rank-and- file pressure in all areas of the union are too strong for any NEC representative to ignore." McGahey obviously controlled the apparatus-- the Communist party's infrastructure inside the miners.

Thus he controls the closely knit caucus of six Communist members of the union's 27-man Executive Committee. And anyone who has fought the Communists during their come early, stay late, outwear-the- opposition tactics knows that six tightly disciplined men are enough to beat the majority-- especially when that majority has a number of fellow traveller sleepers in it. So McGahey got his way-- no overtime and then a successful strike vote.

McGahey knows his Stalinist strategy including the picketing of powerhouses. No coal, no power, no Britain. The "tactic" was masterful.

McGahey reckoned correctly that Prime Minister Heath would be forced into cutting down the industrial and commercial life of his nation. The three- day week has been costing almost a billion dollars a fortnight.

Then would come a strike appeal against the threat of troop action in the mine fields. McGahey believed the labor movement would back him with a general strike-- an awesome weapon. Nothing new. British labor called one back in 1926.

Prime Minister Heath went on the tube and charged the Communists with attempting to smash his government and replace it with a left- wing coalition which would take Communist bidding. "Toe the line," is how the Prime Minister put it. Mr. Heath, in effect, said this was not a trade union drive for wages but a Communist political strike.

Much damage has been done. Britain won't recover for a long time. The responsibility rests on the 269,000 British-Scottish miners. They had justifiable grievances. The British mines are almost as ancient as paleolithic caves. But they threw away their heritage of freedom by following too greedily those who promised them the moon and lots of sixpence.

And if America's miners mistake moonglow for realism and don't heed their responsible leaders, it could happen here.

JACK ANDERSON & LES WHITTEN SAYS:
Kennedy Space Center:
Is It a Fire Hazard?

WASHINGTON-- Billions of dollars in equipment and research could go up in smoke at the Kennedy Space Center because of economy moves which will leave the base dangerously short on fire protection.

Major fire damage to America's launching facility would scratch the planned 1975 Soviet- American space venture as well, thus erasing one of the most promising symbols of world detente.

As of this week, the base will be protected from 3 p.m. to 7 a.m. daily by only eight on- duty firefighters. This skeleton crew is not even large enough to man the $750,000 worth of fire equipment, let alone fight a conflagration.

There are 990,000 gallons of liquid oxygen, 800,000 gallons of liquid hydrogen, plus rocket propellants to stoke a flash fire on the 800,000- acre facility. To make matters worse, the government does not insure any of its property, and additional firefighting help is at least 15 minutes away.

What firemen fear most, however, is a repeat of the Jan. 27, 1968, fire burst which took the lives of astronauts Gus Grissom, Ed White and Roger Chaffee. Astronauts are still training at the Kennedy Space Center in altitude chambers, research is being conducted and hundreds of tourists visit the base regularly.

The Boeing Company, which holds a $24.5 million contract to provide the space center with fire protection, plans to lay off 21 firemen and shift others to lower- paying jobs.

FOOTNOTE: A Boeing spokesman told our associate Jack Cloherty that the cutbacks were implemented because there will be no manned space flights until 1975. Boeing contends that the base is adequately protected. A National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman backed up Boeing, saying the cuts were necessary. He said, in any case, local crews were within five, not fifteen, minutes of the center.

HAIRY PROBLEM: On Christmas day, seven years ago, Judy Braiman, now president of the Consumers Association of New York, developed a cough and began spitting up blood. The doctors opened her chest and discovered up to 60 "rounded nodules" in her lungs. According to a report by her doctor, a pathologist determined that the nodules were "inhalation abscesses."

Continued the physician's report:

"Clinical history established that the patient had been exposed abundantly to a variety of hair sprays. When asked to produce some of these her husband quickly brought to the laboratory eight different commercial spray products ranging from oven cleaners to hair conditioners. One of the latter, the largest can and reportedly the patient's favorite hair spray (Bonat- Enhance) was especially fortified with protein."

Subsequent tests, the doctor reported, determined that "of the seven spray materials used by this patient in her home, her favorite hair spray mentioned above" was the only one chemically similar to the substance in her lungs.

"In view of these findings," the doctor concluded, "the pathologist strongly supported the diagnosis of 'thesaurosis' due to hair spray inhalation."

Last Dec. 3, Mrs. Braiman informed the cosmetics company that she planned to "mention Bonat's product" on an upcoming television show highlighting "the hazards of cosmetics." She also notified the firm that she had sent her data to a Senate subcommittee studying health dangers from aerosols.

Two weeks later, the president of the firm, Jerome Bonat, threatened to haul her into court. "Please be advised," he wrote, "that should your threat to allege on your next television show that your personal injury was caused by a product of ours, you will be accountable for such allegation and suit will be instituted against you personally and against the association for all damages which might be sustained as a consequence."

We spoke with Jack Fleurides, marketing manager for Bonat, who explained to us that the company's tests showed Enhance hairspray could not have been the reason for Mrs. Braiman's injury. But the feisty consumer advocate said she is still planning to air her aerosol charges on television.

FOOTNOTE: As we have reported earlier, a growing body of scientific evidence indicates aerosol sprays "contain chemicals which may sear the eyes, damage the lungs and weaken the heart."

CHRISTMAS CHISEL: Vice Admiral William Behrens Jr., the naval deputy to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, found a nifty way to save money on Christmas cards. He simply mailed them out in official, franked envelopes.

A number of the admiral's acquaintances ripped into the envelopes, marked "official business, penalty for private use $300," to find a card bearing the traditional holiday greeting plus a handwritten "Merry Christmas and Best Wishes."

According to Admiral Behrens, he mailed about 400 cards but used official envelopes only for "professional associates." First he told us that such "associates" comprised about half of his mailing list. Later, he insisted that just "a few cards" had been mailed out courtesy of the taxpayer.

Eberly arrested in robbery

William Theodore Eberly, Compress Road, has been arrested for strong- armed robbery in connection with the theft of $380 from the apartment of Merle Masterson, 231 N. Handy St.

Masterson was hit on the head and robbed in his apartment Thursday night, police said.

Eberly was also arrested for carrying a concealed weapon.

James C. Rose of Memphis, Tenn. was arrested Friday for possession of controlled substances, driving while intoxicated and improper registration.

Other arrests announced today include:

Walter Leroy Frankum, 1718 Oklahoma, driving while intoxicated, driving on a revoked license, no city sticker and improper registration; Samuel Marshall of Sikeston and James Herron, 225 Alabama St., no city sticker; Robert Lee Porter, Dunn Hotel, assault with a dangerous weapon; Peggy Ann Green, 1706 Ford, two counts of peace disturbance; and Shirley Marie Stevenson, 332 Sunset Drive, two counts of peace disturbance.

Saddie Ann Green, 1706 Ford, peace disturbance; Jack Lee Beckwith, 608 Blanton, careless and imprudent driving, speeding and no driver's license; Gloria Jean Baker, 1706 Ford St., two counts of peace disturbance; Alice Agee, 213 Petty, destruction of private property and peace disturbance; Jane Annette Shelby, 405 Missouri, driving while intoxicated.

Dianna Brown, 218 Alabama, three counts assault and battery; Francis Marie Brown, 209 Moore, careless and imprudent driving; Sammy Melvin Crider, 203 Adams, assault and battery; Robert Lyle Morphis, 1724 Oklahoma, public intoxidation; and Robert Henry Wallace, 134 Fourth St., peace disturbance.

Anti-Nixon student is booed down

Conn. (AP) — A college sophomore invited to present an opposing view before the Connecticut Committee for Fairness to the Presidency was booed off the stage before she finished her speech.

Committee Chairman Joseph Raines had asked Lynda Hill, a 19-year-old student at Central Connecticut State College, to address 100 local members of the pro-President Nixon group Sunday.

In his introduction, Raines told the anti-impeachment group that it was necessary "that we hear both sides of this very important issue."

Lucemobile to visit MissCo

CHARLESTON — The Lucemobile, a learning center on wheels from the Cooperative Extension Service of Lincoln University and University of Missouri, will be in Mississippi County this week.

The teaching van, operated by Lance and Valerie Powell offers home repair and improvement tips through actual demonstration and the aid of audio- visual teaching equipment.

Today it visited the Housing Authority Community building on West Iron Banks Road in Charleston.

Tuesday the Lucemobile will be at the Housing Authority Betts Addition in Charleston from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

On Wednesday, the van will move to Wilson City, and Thursday it will be at East Prairie High School from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday it will be located at Checkerboard Square in East Prairie from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Last week it visited locations in Scott County. It will move to Stoddard County Feb. 18-21, then visit New Madrid, Dunklin and Pemiscot counties in March.

Howardville man charged with stabbing youth

NEW MADRID — Curtis Washington of Howardville was charged today with felonious assault in connection with the stabbing Sunday of Joseph Hill 17, of Howardville.

Washington waived preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court and was bound over to Circuit Court under $1,000 bond.

Hill reportedly was stabbed six times in the back and was hospitalized at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Some states begin plan of alternate day gasoline

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thousands of drivers in four states and the nation's capital today joined the ranks of Americans buying their gasoline on alternate days according to their license plate numbers.

New Jersey was the only one of the four states to make the plan mandatory. Massachusetts, New York and Washington made their versions of the gasoline-distribution system voluntary, as did Washington, D.C.

Under the plans, motorists with even-numbered license plates are allowed to buy gas on even-numbered days. Those with odd-numbered tags can buy gas on odd-numbered days.

Since today is the 11th, the plans allow cars with odd-numbered tags to have first try at the pumps. Even-numbered licenses have their turn Tuesday.

Oregon was the first state to institute such a distribution system. Its voluntary plan went into effect Jan. 14. Hawaii put motorists on the Island of Oahu under a similar, but mandatory, plan on Jan. 28.

New Jersey's mandatory plan prohibits sales to drivers whose cars have half a tank of gasoline or more. However, it also requires dealers to sell at least five gallons to qualifying motorists.

Fines for any violation begin at not less than $100 for the first offense, not less than $200 for the second and not less than $500 and imprisonment for the third offense.

Under New York State's voluntary system, motorists were asked to buy gas only if it was really needed and in no case until their tanks were at least half empty. Massachusett's plan suggested a $3 minimum purchase.

In another gasoline development over the weekend, the Federal Energy Office announced a plan to redistribute gasoline allocations among the states. Twelve states and the District of Columbia will get more gas under the plan; 10 states will get less.

A spokesman for the office said the redistribution was intended to give the areas an amount closer to their original allocation. He said some states with shortages were not included because they were receiving the amount of gas originally allocated to them.

States receiving more are: Arkansas, Delaware, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Maine, Mississippi, New Jersey, North Carolina, Texas, Virginia and Tennessee. Those getting less are: Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, New Mexico, North and South Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Russian author issued summons

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet prosecutor's office issued a second summons to Alexander Solzhenitsyn today, but the author said he would not appear and refused to acknowledge the legality of the summons.

Solzhenitsyn has been the target of an official attack branding him a traitor since publication of his book on Stalinist labor camps, "Gulag Archipelago," and the action by the prosecutor was seen as a possible first step toward legally silencing the author.

The first summons was delivered to the apartment of Solzhenitsyn' wife on Friday but she refused to accept it because it did not state reason and did not have a registration number on the document.

The second summons was delivered to the apartment today and Solzhenitsyn immediately issued a statement saying, "In a situation of general illegality which for many years has existed in our country (and the personal eight-year campaign of slander and harassment of me) I refuse to acknowledge the legality of your summons and will not come for an interrogation to any state organ."

The statement, addressed to the procurator of the Soviet Union and made available to Western newspersons, said: "Before asking legality from citizens learn how to observe it yourself. Free the innocent from confinement.

"Punish those guilty of mass executions and false informers. Punish the administrators and the special organs which have performed genocide (exile of peoples). Remove from local and regional satraps today their unlimited power over citizens, the ordering about of courts. Satisfy millions of legal, but suppressed complaints."

Today's summons ordered Solzhenitsyn to report to the investigative division of the prosecutor's investigative division at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Simon asks increase in production

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal energy chief William E. Simon has asked refiners with adequate distillate and residual fuel supplies to increase their gasoline production to alleviate some of the shortages.

Simon, in a statement Sunday, said some refiners already have shifted to more gasoline production.

Warm weather plus energy conservation practices by the public have been the main reasons for the build-up in distillate stocks, said Simon.

Distillates include home heating oil and diesel fuel. Residual fuel oil is used in power plants, ships and some building heating.

Meanwhile, five states today joined the growing number of areas across the nation implementing a voluntary staggered day gasoline servicing program. Starting the so-called Oregon plan today are New Jersey, the District of Columbia, Washington state, New York and Massachusetts. Maryland was to begin the plan Tuesday.

The Senate has scheduled a vote on the bill for Tuesday, Feb. 19, but first it must survive an attempt by Republicans and oil-state senators to recommit it once again to a conference with the House.

15 injuries treated

Fifteen accident patients were treated over the weekend in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Firemen called to McMikle home

Firemen were called at 2:35 p.m. Saturday to the W. J. McMikle home, 224 Kramer Drive, when paper being burned in a fireplace built up at the top of the chimney and sent flames out the top.

Firemen said there was no damage.

At 9:05 p.m. Saturday, firemen were called to the parking lot of the IGA Foodliner when a car owned by Glen Rodgers of Matthews caught fire.

Firemen said there was considerable damage to the wiring and hoses in the engine.

Guard drive doing well

JEFFERSON CITY — Maj. Gen. Charles M. Kiefner, Missouri adjutant general, has announced that the initial reports from "Operation Fill-up" indicate that the National Guard can sustain its strength in the zero draft climate. "The fact that 131 people have enlisted during the first three days of our campaign to bring the Missouri National Guard to full strength is quite encouraging," Gen. Kiefner said.

Recruiters have conducted 953 interviews with prospective guardsmen — women since the campaign began last Sunday.

"The large number of people expressing an interest in the guard would indicate that we should successfully reach our objectives of 700 new members," Gen. Kiefner added.

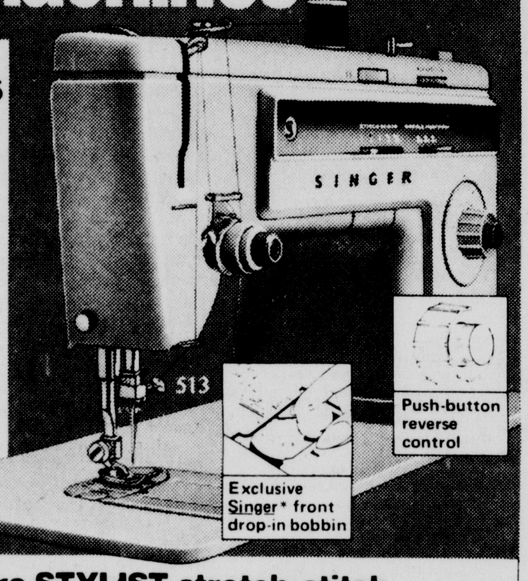

Three of the new recruits are women as many of Missouri's units have openings for both men and women. Interested individuals should contact their local National Guard Armory, or call 314-636-6860, collect, for further details.

Ann Landers

Overdue mother-to-be tired of remarks

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter and you will be the patron saint of every pregnant woman who has a mother, a mother- in- law, a sister, a sister- in- law, a nosy neighbor, a close friend, or a maiden aunt.

Dear Ones: Yes, I am overdue. Two days to be exact. My big mistake was telling you my due date. I wish I had kept my mouth shut. Today I received eight telephone calls and it's only supper time.

"Are you still home?" That was my aunt.

"I thought you'd be in the hospital by this time." That was my mother- in- law.

"Are you sure you figured right?" That was my sister.

"Maybe it's twins. Doctors don't know everything." That was my mother.

If YOU are on edge, how do you think I feel? It doesn't help to get a dozen phone calls from people who are worried about me. One friendly caller said, "When you're late, sometimes the water breaks at home and you have a dry birth which is awful." Sweet of her to tell me.

I just hope every person who telephones a pregnant woman and asks, "Are you still home?" will get this reply: "I answered the phone, didn't I?"-- D. Fenseless

Dear D.: Your message is clear? "Don't call me, honey, I'll call you."

Dear Ann Landers: My girlfriend fell off her shoe and broke her ankle. This is no joke. It actually happened. She was wearing a clog with a two-inch platform, a slingback, and a 4 1/2 inch cork heel.

Emergency rooms all over the country are treating dozens of people who limp in every day, and not all of them are women. Several men who are unaccustomed to the higher heel have tripped on curbs, escalators and staircases.

A word from you might help, Ann. Please say something.-- O. Z.

Dear O. Z.: I'll try, but I don't think I'll get anywhere. People have put style ahead of comfort and common sense for centuries. I see no evidence that it will ever change.

My advice to those who insist on wearing high- fashion cripplers is to walk slowly, stay sober and carry your hospital insurance card.

Dear Ann Landers: We are a group of welfare mothers who meet once a week to help one another with child- rearing problems.

Take it from those of us who know, welfare kids are discriminated against daily. They are begrudged free lunches, laughed at and taken advantage of by teachers who make them clean up the classrooms because they have free lunch cards.

Traumas experienced by welfare mothers and children are countless. However, our reason for writing is not to complain but to say thank you for your efforts to educate the public about welfare recipients. You've done a tremendous service and we are grateful to you.-- The Magnolia Parents Group In Houston

Dear Houston Friends: I'm glad you wrote. The mail ran heavily against me but I knew it would. The ignorance and bigotry in this country, particularly on this issue, is appalling. But I still feel it is better to light a single candle than to curse the darkness.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism-- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Otahki Girl Scouts acquire new camp

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Otahki Girl Scout Council, which serves girls in 10 southeast Missouri and southern Illinois counties, has announced acquisition of a new tract of land donated for council use and selection of a new executive director for the council.

Mrs. Donald Z. Barklage of Cape Girardeau, former council president and new executive director, said a gift of 100 acres of land, located off Cape LaCroix Road in Cape Girardeau, has been given as a permanent day camp and troop camping site by Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Harris of Cape Girardeau.

The land consistes of approximately 60 acres of clear and wooded acreage and a 40- acre lake known as Lake Hollenbeck.

Mrs. Barklage said the land was given to the council in late December. It is planned to hold day camp sessions there this summer, she said, and to use a concrete block building on the land for various council functions -- leader training, board meetings, committee meetings and the like.

"The building will not be for troop use," she said. "We want scouts to take advantage of the opportunity to tent camp."

There are two floating docks on the lake, which is heavily stocked with fish. Tests on lake water will begin soon to determine whether canoeing and other water activities can safely be included as part of day camp activities.

Mrs. Barklage succeeds Mrs. Muriel McArthur as executive director of the council. The spot had been vacant for several months. Mrs. Barklage was elected council president in November 1972 and has been active in scouting for many years on many levels.

Replacing her as council president is Mrs. Calvin Phillips of Jackson, a troop leader for 11 years and formerly first vice president of the council board of directors. At a council appreciation dinner in 1973, Mrs. Phillips was given the coveted Thanks Badge, the highest honor given an adult volunteer in scouting.

Mrs. Truman R. Cole Jr. of Cape Girardeau, is the council's new first vice president and Mrs. Richard Kogge of Cape Girardeau the second vice president. Another Cape resident, Terry Begley, was elected new council member- at- large.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Coal production in Kentucky continues to rise while the fatality rate of miners in relation to the amount of coal mined remains at last year's record low.

The Mines and Minerals Department reported coal output would reach more than the 120 million tons mined in 1973. Twenty-one persons have been killed in mining mishaps during 1973.

Prevention of dental problems begins early

By LAURENCE M. HURSH, M.D.
Consultant, National Daily Council

Your teeth are not "dead" material. The dentine and enamel of your teeth are inert. But the pulp of teeth contains nerves and blood vessels. Your teeth are fastened to bones by a membrane that also is living material. And the bony ridges of the upper and lower jaw in which your teeth are imbedded are alive.

This is National Children's Dental Health Week - the 27th successive year this event has been held. It is one of the most significant "weeks" or "days" held in America because the problem of dental health is so important to all of us -- and the best prevention of dental problems begins with children.

The science of dental health care is much improved since many of us were children. But there is still a great deal the individual must do for himself.

Like nutrition.

It really is quite simple to explain. But apparently more difficult to follow. The best diet for anyone, unless there are specific health problems that dictate otherwise, is the one based on the four food groups.

Roughly, this plan is that you should choose a wide variety of foods daily from these groups -- the meat group, the milk group, the fruits and vegetables, and breads and cereals. When you've made sure you aren't going to consume more calories than you should, then fats and oils come into play for added flavor and palatability.

For dental protection, stay away from sticky starches and sweets. Be careful of sugars generally, and watch the sweet drinks and sugary gums.

There is no substitute for brushing your teeth after every meal -- and knowing how to brush your teeth well. Your dentist will instruct you regarding additional precautions such as flossing.

Nutrition of the expectant mother has an important influence on the very young child's dental health. This is because teeth first develop as "buds" in the jawbone of the unborn child. The expectant mother can protect her own teeth and assure her baby of a good dental start by making sure she receives an adequate diet. Particularly she should get enough calcium and fluoride, along with other minerals, and vitamins.

For everyone, basic nutrition for dental health, of course, favors a diet that causes you to chew foods well. The exercise this gives gums and teeth is good for them. And make sure you get, along with other needed nutrients, enough calcium, phosphorus and vitamin D.

BLANKET PROPOSAL

Though most blanket statements have little value, here's one that can save you work and money and keep you extra warm during the cold months ahead:

Choose a pair of wool blankets and make them into draperies for your living room. By contrasting them with your wallpaper, paint or carpeting, you'll achieve a fresh, dramatic effect.

The mood can be delicately feminine--a white or pink "see-through" thermal blanket--or ruggedly masculine, using a strong solid color blanket--or one with a tartan or American Indian pattern.

Wool blanket "draperies" are a natural for the living room. Wool's inherent ability to hold moisture--up to 33 percent of its own weight--acts as a natural fire retardant. And the wool fiber itself acts as an insulator--it keeps the room's heat in and keeps the cold air out. You get all this when you buy a wool blanket with the Woolmark label on it, a meaningful blanket statement assuring you of a quality-tested product made of the world's best...Pure Wool!

Major highway, transit program proposed

JEFFERSON CITY — A major proposal to aid mass transportation systems, provide for improved county roads and bridges and increase highway funds to cities, towns and villages is now under consideration by the Missouri House of Representatitives.

This transportation package is sponsored by James Conway, D-St. Louis, and provides a statewide fund to help finance mass transportation systems, county bridges and roads.

Conway noted: "For too many years the support of mass transportation in Missouri has been on a patchwork basis. The state has not taken an active role in developing an effective and desperately needed mass transportation financial aid plan for all our urban areas.

"This proposal will accomplish this and also increase assistance to our county road districts by providing money directly and by establishing a fund specifically for county bridge construction and improvements.

"These measures help to fulfill our pledge to the citizens of St. Louis, St. Louis County and Kansas City to provide long- term assistance to mass transportation systems replacing the one- half cent sales tax when it expires in December 1974," Conway added.

The proposal includes a constitutional amendment which would require voter approval, and a companion House bill that would become effective only upon approval of the constitutional amendment.

The constitutional amendment would allow diversion of gasoline tax money for use in mass transportation systems and county roads and bridges. However, it does not set the specifiv amount to be diverted.

The companion legislation would increase the gasoline tax by three cents a gallon to provide the revenue for diversion. Two cents is for mass transportation and the other cent is for counties to help in building and maintaining roads and bridges.

Conway pointed out that the Constitution provides 15 per cent of all gasoline tax revenue must go to cities directly, while another five per cent must go directly to the counties.

Since each cent of tax would raise an additional $28 million in revenue this would mean $84 million would be provided by the measure. Of this, $44.8 million would be for mass transportation, $26.8 million for counties and $12.6 million for cities.

The funds for mass transportation would be under the direction of the new State Department of Transportation which was created under the reorganization proposal just passed by the legislature. That department would set the rules and regulations for distribution of mass transportation money. They would also act as the agency through which federal matching funds for mass transit could be funneled.

The counties and cities would receive their funds under the present allocation formula provision of the Constitution. The State Highway Department would administer the County Bridge Improvement Fund which is created by the House Bill.

The bridge improvement fund would amount to eight and one third per cent of the $84 million. That money would be available to counties on the basis of need for improving county bridges.

Conway noted, "There are many instances in which a county needs to replace or rebuild a bridge, but the expense is so great the county simply cannot afford to have it done.

This fund would allow counties in this dilemma to apply to the State Highway Department for help from this special fund. Under this proposal the highway department would make grants for bridge construction on county roads each year on a priority basis.

This proposal has been approved by the St. Louis city and county administrations, the Bi-State Development Agency, the St. Louis County Municipal League, the Missouri Municipal League, the Area Transportation Authority of Kansas City and tentatively by the Kansas City administration.

31 per cent of written driver's exams failed

JEFFERSON CITY — Thirty- one per cent of the 378,872 written driver's license examinations taken in 1973 were failed, according to a summary from the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

The summary also showed that 21 per cent of the road tests given during the year were failed, while one per cent of the vision tests were not passed by the applicants.

New drivers, those who had never been licensed before, took 77 per cent of the examinations administered by the highway patrol in 1973. Out- of- state drivers moving into Missouri accounted for 17 per cent of the examinations, and five per cent of the examinations were given to drivers who had allowed their licenses to expire. Approximately one per cent of the examinations were given for drivers cited by the Director of Revenue and for the removing of restrictions.

The highway patrol also gives driver examinations to persons who desire to get their licenses qualified for the operation of a motorcycle. Last year, 26,812 "static" tests were given to such applicants. The main purpose of this type of test is to determine if the applicant is familiar with the controls of his machine. Less than one per cent of these tests were failed.

There were 26,623 "skill" motorcycle tests given by the patrol in 1973. Only two percent of these tests were failed by applicants. The "skill" test is employed to determine the applicant's skill and ability to maneuver a motorcycle in traffic.

The driver's license examination program in Missouri has been administered by the highway patrol since 1952.

Consumer Protection At its Best

THE HEALTH INSURANCE RACKET AND HOW TO BEAT IT. By John E. Gregg. Henry Regnery Co. 192 Pages. $6.95.

Did you ever wish, when buying something big, that you had a friend who was a combined detective, lawyer and product expert?

Well, John E. Gregg is just that: a former FBI man, a lawyer and a former salesman for health insurance. Unless you are covered already by a group plan, you probably will need this book before you buy health insurance to cover your hospital and doctor bills.

Gregg adopts an adversary status from the start. "Companies always delay claims payments as long as possible," he says. "Insurance companies operate to make as much money as they can. Paying claims contradicts this purpose."

The book begins with a discussion of the difference between company promises and what the company actually means. It warns of the importance of making sure that applications for insurance are complete and accurate, since a single misstatement or omission is reason for rejecting a claim.

Perhaps the most important single chapter is the "Guide to Buying Health Insurance," which lists 13 points to look out for. This alone is worth the price of the whole book.

But, if you have already bought your insurance, the next step is to collect your claim. This is taken care of in the chapters on "Negotiating the Red Tape" and "Bringing Pressure to Bear."

An extremely useful feature of the book is the inclusion of form letters to be written to insurance companies, state insurance officials (whose addresses are given), the Better Business Bureau and credit agencies.

Football tickets obtained for bill passage, Gray says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic congressman says he arranged for colleagues and congressional aides to buy at least 35 scarce season tickets to Washington Redskins football games last fall after helping win passage of a bill to increase the seating capacity at Redskins games.

Rep. Kenneth J. Gray, D-Ill., confirmed in a telephone interview that he arranged for 35 to 40 tickets. He said they were sold at cost to House members and congressional aides.

Nancy Vitali, of the subcommittee on buildings and grounds who distributed the tickets, and Richard Sullivan, chief counsel of the parent Public Works Committee, each used a figure of 60 tickets.

Gray is chairman of the subcommittee and a ranking member of the Public Works Committee.

In the interview, Gray complained that the seats were bad and said the Redskins, after promising a "fair and equitable distribution," had ignored his repeated requests for 250 seats.

Redskins president Edward Bennett Williams said he could not recall "any demand of that kind ever being made" by Gray or anyone on his staff.

He said that if priority was given to any congressman "it was in isolated cases, I suppose."

"It's entirely possible that there's as many as 40 or 60 that were sold, and I underscore sold, to members of Congress," Williams said. "I really don't know that and I really don't have an interest in finding out that."

But, he went on, "as far as making a bloc of tickets available to Congressman Gray, that is just ridiculous."

Redskins games regularly are sold out and there is little turnover in season tickets. There are more than 9,000 persons on a waiting list for such seats and during House debate last summer one congressman said thousands more would sign up if they had any hope tickets would become available.

That argument was presented by Gray and others during debate on a bill to permit private financing of 8,000 more seats at Robert F. Kennedy stadium, which, held 53,000 persons, one of the National Football League's smallest facilities.

After the bill passed and became law in July, Gray said he told the Redskins that Congress should be provided with at least 250 season seats as its "rightful share."

Gray said he sent the Redskins a list with 250 names on it and made half a dozen calls to find out where the tickets were. He said Mrs. Vitali made at least a dozen calls "not pressuring mind you, just asking."

Gray said the Redskins finally notified him on the Friday night before the season-opening game that 35 to 40 tickets were available.

He said Mrs. Vitali collected personal checks, including his own for about $1,100, turned them over to the Redskins and picked up the tickets. Gray said his check paid for tickets for members who were not reachable that night.

In the interview, Gray named four colleagues for whom he obtained tickets.

"Yeah, I got a couple from Ken," said Melvin Price, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ethics Committee.

Highlights and sidelights

Attention turns to regular session

JEFFERSON CITY — The special session behind them, Missouri's legislators have turned their attention to a mountainous stack of legislation that has been introduced for the regular session that will end April 30.

In action last week:

The Senate Municipal Corporations Committee tabled a proposed constitutional amendment to reduce the present majority required for passage of general obligation and revenue bond issues.

The measure, introduced by Rep. Jack Gant (D-Independence), would lower to 60 per cent the majority needed for passage of general obligation bond issues and require a simple majority for the passage of revenue bond issues. A two-thirds majority is needed for passage of general obligation bond issues at the present time, and a four- sevenths majority is required for approval of revenue bond issues.

A similar constitutional amendment was defeated in a statewide vote in 1968.

The House Judiciary Committee heard news media representatives testify in favor of a bill that would give reporters the right to refuse to testify or produce evidence in court proceedings. However, the committee took no action on the proposed reporter's shield law.

Among the witnesses speaking in favor of the bill were Roy Fisher, dean of the School of Journalism, University of Missouri-Columbia, Robert Hardy, director of public affairs for KMCX radio, St. Louis, and William A. Bray, executive director of the Missouri Press Association.

Rep. John A. Sharp (R-Kansas City), a sponsor of the legislation, said the proposed law would prove valuable in the investigation of organized crime and government because informants would be more willing to talk to reporters if they knew the names would not be revealed.

A proposed revision of the state's 67- year - old anti- trust law suffered a setback in the Senate where an amendment was approved to limit to $36,000 the amount the Attorney General may spend on anti-trust investigations. The Senators also voted to remove from the bill a section that would have given the attorney General the power to subpoena individuals in anti-trust investigations.

An amendment that would have restricted the investigation of anti-trust cases only to firms involved in intrastate commerce was narrowly defeated.

Kermit W. Almstedt, the only anti-trust assistant on Attorney General John C. Danforth's staff, charged that the Senate action had left the bill little better than the existing law.

The fate of a second attempt to secure the General Assembly's approval of the federal Equal Rights Amendment remained uncertain after a four- hour Senate Rules Committee hearing.

Both proponents and opponents of the controversial amendment to the U. S. Constitution turned out in large numbers for the hearing, but Sen. Lawrence J. Lee (D-St. Louis), the committee chairman, postponed a vote on the measure.

A total of 38 states would have to ratify the proposed amendment for it to become law. So far, the measure has been approved in 32 states.

Gov. Bond has issued a statement favoring ratification.

The House gave tentative approval to a bill that would allow all public employes except law enforcement personnel to bargain collectively after a day- long debate.

Exempted in the bill are police officers, deputy sheriffs, highway patrolmen and national guardsmen.

Rep. Daniel O'Toole (D-St. Louis) is the sponsor of the bill.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Nobody Likes Bad Breath

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What, in most instances, causes bad breath? If a person has bad breath, how should he be told? And what should he do if he is already using mouth wash, breath refresheners, etc.? Can it usually be prevented by keeping the bowels open? How can a person know whether or not he has bad breath?

Dear Reader — How to tell a person he has bad breath depends a lot on your relationship to the individual. Usually you do the person a favor by telling him because, if he isn't told, he often doesn't know it. Bad breath can detract significantly from either a man's or woman's appearance and limit their business and personal opportunities. No one likes to be knocked over with strong breath.

Doing something about it isn't always so easy. The first step is finding out what causes it. This means a fairly good medical examination. Bad breath can be caused by poor teeth, particularly pyorrhea and infections around the teeth. Even though the teeth may be regularly brushed, the pyorrhea process will continue to produce bad odors unless it is properly treated. Some individuals are careful about brushing the teeth but pay no attention to the tongue. It accumulates food products and is often a source of bad breath. You can brush the tongue just as you brush the teeth and a little tooth paste on the brush will help.

Some individuals have ear, nose, and throat problems, including old, infected tonsils, infected sinuses and sinusitis. It may be necessary to remove diseased tonsils, or improve the drainage from the sinuses through proper treatment. Infected sinuses may need medication.

Below this level you could have changes in the breath associated with the body chemistry. There are persons with uncontrolled diabetes or advanced liver disease who can be detected by their breath because of chemical changes. The expired air contains some of these chemicals and you can smell them, just as you can smell alcohol on a person's breath.

Certain diseases of the lungs, particularly associated with infections, can cause bad breath. Then there is the large group of digestive disturbances which contribute to the problem. Some women have this problem, particularly at the time of their menses or just before their menstrual periods.

As you can see, it is not such a simple problem as you might imagine, and the first step is a good medical examination, which should include an evaluation of the sinuses, teeth, lungs and digestive tract as possible sources of the bad breath.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I had a mole removed from under my arm in 1967. Now, I notice this mole has grown back in the same place. Is this something I should worry about? It is in an awkward place. That's why I had it removed in the first place. Please give me your advice on this matter.

Dear Reader — By all means go back to your doctor and let him examine it. Anyone who has had a mole removed, and it recurs in the same spot, should have it looked at as soon as possible. Any mole which is in an awkward place, as you described it, meaning a place where it can be irritated such as being shaved or rubbed by a strap or belt, should be removed anyway.

Tire safety tips

Properly inflated tires not only mean better car control, they mean better gas mileage, says the Tire Industry Safety Council. Underinflated tires squirm, causing increased roll resistance, which makes the engine work harder and use more fuel.

* * *

Properly balanced tires improve steering control. Uneven weight distribution can cause tires to hop or shimmy.

* * *

A tire changing check now may save you time and trouble when you need your car in an emergency, says the Tire Industry Safety Council. Make sure your jack works and your spare tire is properly inflated. Then make sure you know how to put it on.

* * *

For safety's sake, make sure your new tires are registered by the seller, as required by law. If a defect is later found in any tires of the same production run, the manufacturer can notify you.

* * *

Under- or overinflation can cause erratic steering and possible damage to tires which may lead to an accident. Check air pressure regularly, the Tire Industry Safety Council says.

* * *

Radial tire punctures can only be repaired if they occur in the tread between the two major outer grooves, and only if the puncture is less than 1/4 inch in diameter, tire experts say.

* * *

The Tire Industry Safety Council recommends placing new tires on the rear axle. Studies show vehicles in accidents more often have worn tires in the rear.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Feb. 11, the 42nd day of 1974. There are 323 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, the World War II Yalta Agreement was signed by President Franklin Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin.

On this date:

In 1543, King Henry VIII of England and the Holy Roman Emperor, Charles V, signed a treaty of alliance against France.

In 1744, French and Spanish ships defeated an English fleet off the Mediterranean port of Toulon.

In 1808, hard coal was first used as fuel— at Wilkes- Barre, Pa.

In 1848, the inventor, Thomas Edison, was born in Milan, Ohio.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Commodity futures prices were strong on the Chicago Board of Trade today, with soybean oil again advancing the limit of 100 points, or 1 cent a pound.

The demnd for soy oil appeared to be a carryover from last Friday when prices closed 100 points higher and many purchase orders remained to be filled. Bids on the opening were at limits higher and trade stalled at that point in nearby options.

The demand for soybean oil sparked a strong buying move in soybeans and produced a rise of some 13 cents a bushel.

Wheat rose 15 cents a bushel at one time while corn advanced 4 cents and oats almost as much.

After about an hour, wheat futures were 7 to 11 cents a bushel higher, March 5.92; corn was 1½ to 3¼ higher, March 3.06; oats were 2 to 3¼ higher, March 1.69¼ and soybeans were 4 to 8 higher, March 6.54.

"We didn't get a free gift when we switched to First National Bank, and we really appreciate it."

We switched to First National Bank about 3 years ago on the advice of a friend. We'd just gotten married and had a lot of financial questions.

We'd seen "free" plastic coolers, cameras, silver-plated pie servers, china and other gimmicks in the ads. But we didn't want a "free" gift. We wanted a bank that understood the money problems young couples has.

Larry and I were impressed with the personal efficient service, and having our own officer to answer all our questions.

True, the president didn't come out with a "free" ice bucket or a pie-server. But our officer at First National Bank saved us money on our auto loan, set up a security savings plan for our first child and showed us how to earn an extra $60.00 a year on our savings. That sure beats a free pie-server or even a dozen ice buckets or other gimmicks.

Bullpups post 6-4 record

Colts sign Berra

BALTIMORE (AP) — With the tape recorders turned on and the film cameras ready to roll, Joe Thomas was given his cue:

"Gentlemen," said the general manager of the Baltimore Colts, "the press conference, as you know, is to announce the signing of Tim Berra, wide receiver."

When the unusual Sunday conference was opened to questions, however, most were directed toward Berra's famous father—baseball immortal Yogi Berra, who now manages the New York Mets.

"Tim doesn't say much," Yogi had said earlier. "His coach at Massachusetts told me that. And, the trainer said he never saw him. He plays hurt."

"That's the kind of player we like," Thomas said. "We don't want those who are too familiar with the trainers."

Later, at the conference, Thomas gave young Berra extremely high marks for his raw talent and dedication, while conceding his size didn't meet normal National Football League standards.

"Tim runs excellent pass routes and has great hands," Thomas said. "He'll catch anything near him. But the main thing is his dedication to the game, and his willingness to learn."

At the University of Massachusetts, the 5-foot-11, 184-pound Berra caught 62 passes last season for 930 yards and 13 touchdowns, and also returned kicks. After the regular season, he played in the North-South and American Bowl games.

Coach Dick MacPherson of Massachusetts said recently that Berra's size and speed didn't merit his being chosen any higher than the 17th round where he was picked by the Colts.

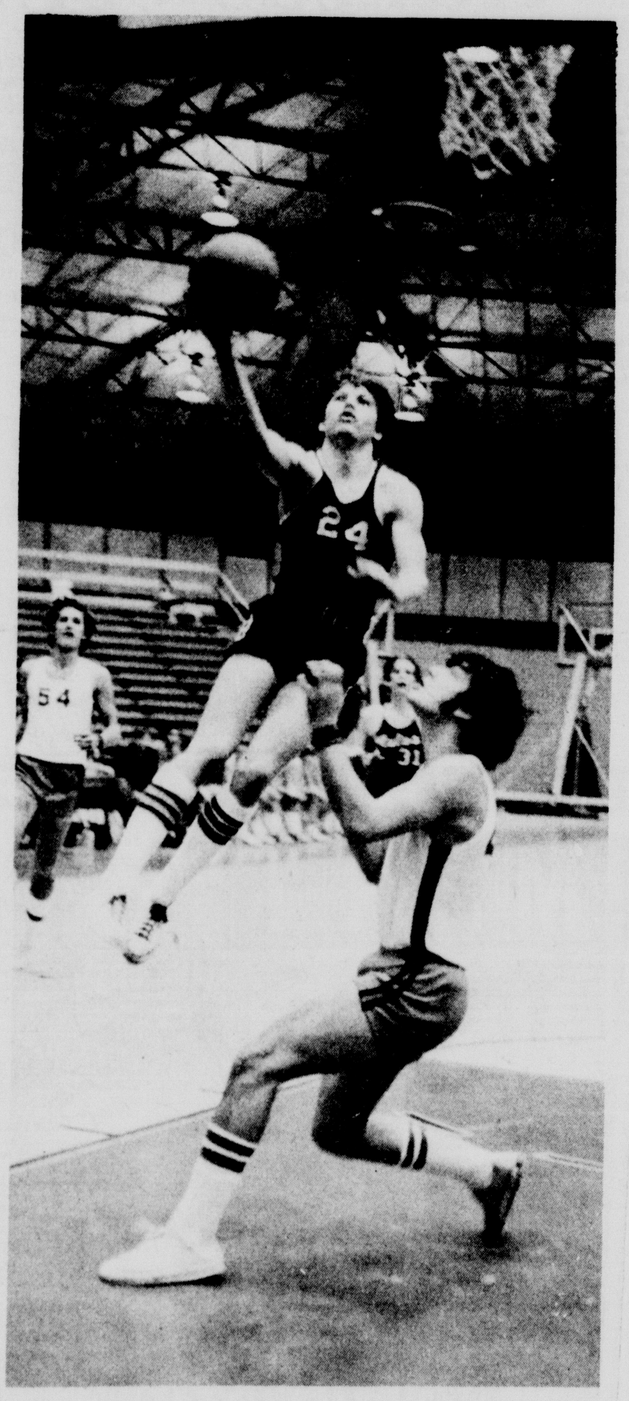

"If you put Tim Berra in one of those computers," MacPherson said, "he'd be a washout. But this kid is something special. Whatever he has, he uses. He's just a super achiever."

Two recent 17th-round picks, running back Don Nottingham in 1971 and linebacker Stan White in 1972, stuck with the Colts and Thomas noted that two free agents made the squad last season.

Tim, 22, played baseball in high school and prep school, but concentrated on football when he reached college.

Yogi, on the other hand, said he had played touch football in the streets and tackle on the sandlots while growing up in "The Hill" section of St. Louis.

"I played center on offense," Yogi said. "But I liked it when the other team had the ball, so I could tackle."

Poplar Bluff's Jeff Jones (24) heads for the basket with SHS cagers, Mark Eaves (54) and Mike Bohannon (42) in hot pursuit during the championship game of the Sikeston JV invitational Saturday night.

PHS wins

PERRYVILLE — Deral Niswonger hit a bucket with four seconds left in overtime to give the PHS Pirates a 71-70 SEMO conference win over the Jackson Indians here Friday night.

The game was an evenly matched affair in the first period with Jackson coming up short by one point 17-16. The Pirates had trouble with the Indian defense in the second quarter and Jackson overtook PHS and forged ahead at the half 34-29.

Each team featured balanced scoring from four of their starters as Niswonger and Brewer dumped in 22 points apiece for the Pirates and John Mize and Clay Vanguilder scored 20 and 18 points respectively for the Indians.

Perryville kept the heat on Jackson in the last two periods and finally tied the game just before the buzzer ending the regulation time.

Jackson took the lead in the overtime period only to have Niswonger hit for two points.

Perryville scored eight points in the overtime period and Jackson hit seven.

Jackson won the B game 50-45 with Law hitting 16. Wayne Hahn scored 20 for Perryville.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)— Dick Toomey, 27, a former Boston University star, is the new head coach of Brown's varsity hockey team.

Toomey, the Brown freshman coach for two years, was awarded the varsity job on a permanent basis Sunday. He had been named "interim" coach last Thursday when J. Allan Soares was fired for alleged failure to control the conduct of Brown players on the ice.

NEW YORK (AP)— The Westminster Kennel Club's 98th annual show opened at Madison Square Garden today with a total of 3,147 dogs representing 132 breeds and variety competing. It is the largest Westminster show in recent history.

Mules claim title

Mark Eaves scored 20 points and grabbed 24 rebounds, but it wasn't enough. Ron Priday connected on a dozen of his fifteen freethrows for 18 points, but that wasn't enough either as the Sikeston junior varsity ran into a tenacious and emotional bunch of Poplar Bluff Mules and dropped only their second game of the year, 66- 62 in overtime during the championship of the Sikeston JV invitational Saturday night.

The Mules came out for the game emotionally up and enthusiastically slapping at all loose balls. The game they were using was the most physical Sikeston had faced all year. Sikeston had taken the Mules in the "more important" conference game the night before and for a while they looked like they might have taken the second-seeded Mules too lightly. But winning the Sikeston invitational was important to the team and coach Buddy Spears. They had dropped only one of their fourteen games coming in, so they tried to join the aggressive Mules in their more spirited defense. The result was more of a free throw shooting contest than a ballgame. The teams combined for sixty fouls and 79 free throws and a real fine crowd was treated to somewhat less than a real fine ballgame.

The tournament champions won the game from the floor, where they took 23 more shots than Sikeston and hit four of them. The effective Mule press was responsible for the many of the added shots, even though Poplar Bluff actually made more turnovers than the losers, 22- 19. Sikeston also outrebounded Poplar Bluff, 49- 33, in the fourth game in five days for both teams. However, it seemed that the hustling Mules owned each loose ball and every jump ball in the night's action and even continuous pressure in the defense for Sikeston couldn't erase the Poplar Bluff lead and salvage the win.

Bluff established control of the game early. Stealing the ball and presenting an inpenatrable wall on defense, they ran up a 10- 4 lead before Sikeston finally was able to make a dent in their defense and narrow the score to one point by quarter's end, 14- 13. Sikeston had led at 13-12 and that was the last time they were to enjoy that status until less than two minutes were left in the contest.

The eventual winners had expanded their margin to four at half, 34- 30, having the lead grow to as much as six during the quarter. Again it was the Mule press that was unnoticeably bugging the Sikeston guards and causing them to throw the ball away enough times to hold the score down. Also in the quarter there started the seemingly endless procession on the part of both teams to the free throw line. Poplar Bluff used fifteen free throw attempts to hit ten free throws for half of their 20 points.

After what was probably an interesting halftime chat with Coach Spears, the Sikeston jayvees came out with a determined look on each face. They had beaten these guys the night before and, with Eaves enjoying a fine night, they were determined to do it again! Unfortunately, it was a good idea for Sikeston, but PB wasn't having any of it. They expanded the lead to as large as seven before hanging on to a three point, 47- 44, lead entering the last frame.

In the last period Sikeston started to turn it around. They dropped their press and moved back into a zone, as they had done much of the third period. Letting Poplar Bluff bring the ball downcourt, but stopping the fast-break baskets, the poor- shooting Mules slowly but surely began to lose their grip on the game. The Bulldogs, led by Priday, were more successful at the free throw line and the difference began to tell in that quarter. Sikeston tied it for the first time at 52- all. And, they led 58- 57 and had the ball with 13 seconds left when Poplar Bluff committed a desperation foul. Sikeston hit just one of the two shots they were allotted and the Mules raced down court, threw up a wild shot and it dropped through with less than three seconds left. A courtlength Sikeston shot was way short and the two teams were tied, 59- 59.

After thinking they had the game won, the Sikeston team. was dejected and the Mules, playing without pivotman Bill Turner, once again applies the pressure and simply regained the momentum they had established earlier to outscore the Bulldogs 7- 3, upset the top- seeded Bulldogs and surprise an enthusiastic Sikeston crowd that had been on its feet since the first part of the fourth quarter.

The Mules had three in double figures, led by 5- foot-10 Jeff Jones' 15. Steve Threlkeld scored 14 and Tracy Edington added 11.

Sikeston was led by Eaves' 20. Priday, doing most of his scoring from the charity line, added 18-- his top game of the year.

Sikeston's record dropped to 13- 2. Poplar Bluff earned victory number nine to go with six losses. The win for Sikeston in the previous night's game insured at least a Bulldog tie for the conference championship, the first of any kind for a Bulldogs basketball team since 1968- 69. The next and last conference game for Sikeston will be February 22nd against Cape Central, there. Before that SHS will face Richland next Tuesday and Blytheville a week later.

In the first game Saturday night, Cape Central used a good defense and some fine fourth quarter shooting to come from behind and defeat upset- minded Charleston, 49- 47. Charleston had led most of the game, and even held a five point lead in the fourth period. But, Cape used a tough pressing defense to come from way back and clinch the win on two late free throws.

New Vitamin "E" Plus "C" Diet Gives Fast Weight Loss

LOS ANGELES (Special)— New scientific discoveries have now produced a Vitamin E Plus "C" diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon and eggs and still lose weight.

Very Hi-Potency vitamin "E" Plus "C" tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that quickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wondrous benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin "E" Plus "C" Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical tests, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin "E" Plus "C".

"E" + "C" DIET AVAILABLE

To get a copy of this highly successful diet and "E" Plus "C" Tablets, send $5.00 for 10 day supply (or $7.00 for 20 day supply or $10.00 for 30 day supply) to: "Diet" 309 N. Kings Rd., Los Angeles, CA 90048 money-back guarantee if not satisfied). In Calif. add 5% tax.

North upset

CARUTHERSVILLE--- The Daily Standard's newest addition to its weekly high school basketball poll, sixth ranked North Pemiscot, fell to that season long run of bad luck that seems to haunt the new member and got initiated real quick when the Delta C-7 Chargers knocked off the Mustangs 47-45 Saturday night for the championship of the Bootheel Conference tournament. The NPHS junior varsity claimed their division honor with a 51-49 decision over South Pemiscot.

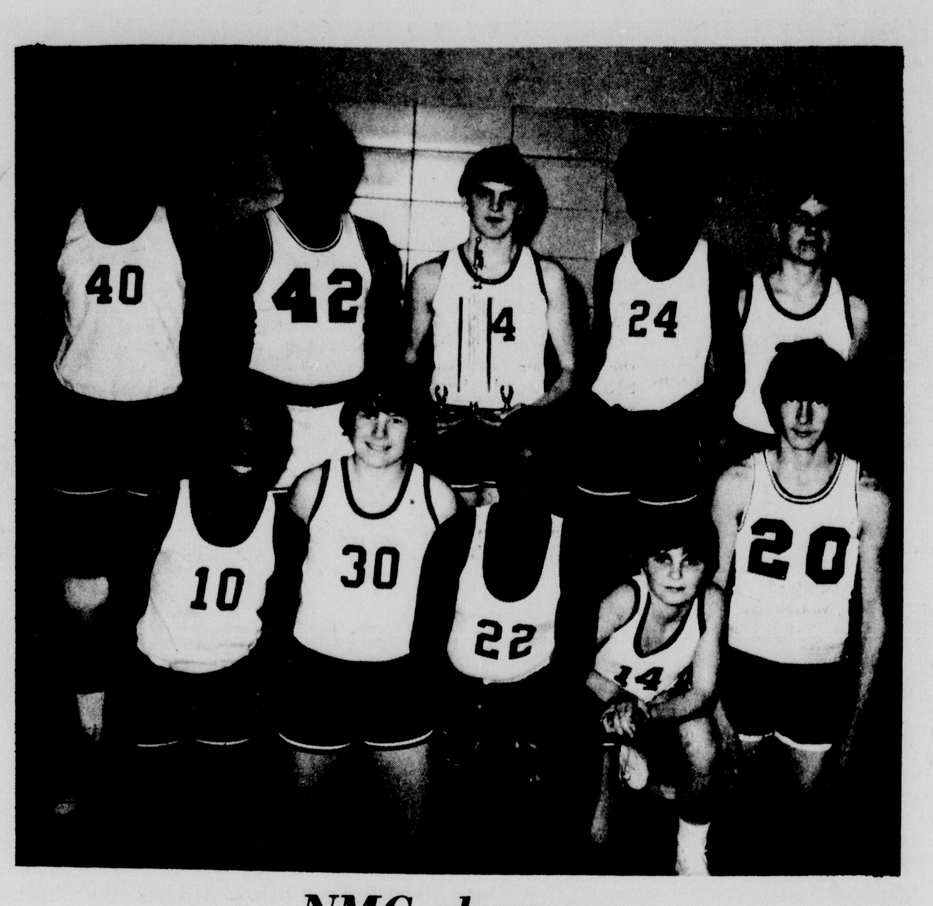

Delta C-7, one of the district's most improved class A teams, tuned up for next week's regional at Clarkton with this title win, breaking ahead 12-10 in the first quarter before charging from behind for a 15-9 fourth quarter edge and the championship.

Larry Blankenship and Mike Meade shared the leadership for the Chargers, scoring 11 points each as balance was the key to the DC-7 offense. Jerry Stewarter led all scorers on the night with his 22 markers for the Chargers.

The Mustangs JV unit withstood a fourth quarter South charge to preserve their victory. South Pemiscot out-pointed their North opponents 17-11 in the final period but fell two points short.

Mike Blackman led the Mustangs offense with 25 points while South Pem's Joe Martin hit 28 for game high honors.

Southeast loses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tarkio stunned highly regarded William Jewell, 57-53 in overtime, Saturday to grab the lead in the Heart of America basketball derby while Southwest Missouri was stalled in its quest for the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association title when it was defeated by Central Missouri, 84-77.

Tarkio's Jerry Lapsley scored a basket with four seconds left to tie the game 51-all and send it into overtime. Del Morley hit a basket and Jim Martin and Steve Breazier had two free throws each in the extra stanza to raise the Owls record to 7-1 and drop Jewell's mark 7-2.

Ottawa moved into third in the HOA by cruising past Central Methodist, 94-83, with Greg Bell scoring 24 points and Bob Lusk 20 for the Braves. In the other conference game, Baker trounced Graceland, 74-49.

Central Missouri used a balanced attack, with four men in double figures, to upset Southwest, 84-77. Dana Elwell was high for the Mules with 18 points while Daryel Garrison had 28 for Southwest, which went to 6-2 in the MIAA.

Northwest Missouri edged Southeast Missouri, 66-65, and Missouri Rolla blasted Northeast Missouri, 94-74, in the other association play. Lincoln University went outside the MIAA and absorbed a 83-62 beating at the hands of potent Kentucky State.

Among the independents, Drury scored an impressive 74-55 over Marymount of Salina, Kan., while Missouri-Kansas City topped Culver-Stockton, 90-76.

Rockhurst dropped a 95-83 decision to Nebraska Omaha and Missouri St. Louis was downed by Western Illinois, 97-81.

Southwest Baptist turned back State College of Arkansas, 89-84, and Park College nipped Bible Baptist, 77-76.

HANOVER, N. H. (AP)— Dartmouth College is the champion of its annual Winter Carnival ski meet for the 36th time.

The host Big Green piled up 146 points during the three-day, four event meet which concluded Saturday. Middlebury was second followed by 1973 champion Vermon.

TRCC loses lead

POPLAR BLUFF — Three Rivers Community College failed to put it all together Saturday night and dropped their lead in the Missouri Junior College Athletic Conference race, bowing to Forrest Park 78-74.

Coach Gene Bess' TRCC Raiders, bidding for the school's sixth straight league title, fell behind early and never regained their composure against their tall and talented opponents.

Warren Wynn, a big 6-foot-9 postman, dropped in 20 points to lead the upset victory of the Raiders and throw the league race back into a three way deadlock. Albri Cassell hit 17 to pace the Raiders offense, which included three other players with double figure marks.

Zalma wins 1st

ZALMA Action in the Zalma Invitational Tourney here Saturday night saw the Zalma Bulldogs take the first place trophy over the Leopold Wildcats 58-57 in what could have been anybody's ballgame.

The Greenville Bears earned the third place trophy claiming a dominating victory 88-59 win over the College High Preps in the second game of the night. The Naylor Eagles claimed the fifth place position in a consolation game over St. Vincent 62-49.

In the first place title game, the Zalma Bulldogs held a one point 16-15 lead over the Leopold Wildcats at the end of the first quarter, and increased their hold in the second period by two points with 28-26 halftime score. The lead changed hands in their quarter when the Wildcats outscored the Bulldogs by six points scoring 16 points to the Bulldogs ten points, bringing a 42-38 score at the end of the third quarter. In the fourth quarter it was anybody's game with both teams battling it out, but in the final seconds of the game the Bulldogs got the points when they needed them and came out with the one point advantage over the Wildcats 58-57.

Kerry Mondy hit 22 points to lead the Bulldogs to their victory. David Kirkpatrick and Micky West each contributed 12 points.

Leon Eestink clawed the hardest for Leopold scoring 18 points. Mark Eftink and Gerald Janson scored 12 points apiece. In the third place title game, the Greenville Bears jumped out to an early 25-17 lead over the CHS Preps and continued their hold with a 29-14 lead at the end of the second period bringing the half-time score to 54-31.

Things remained the same in the third quarter for the Bears as they claimed a nine point 22-13 lead. Not until the fourth quarter did the Preps show any improvement as they outscored the Bears by three points, but by then the Bears had the game put away 88-59.

Louis McClean did most of the damage for the Bears scoring 30 points, followed by Ron Porter, who contributed 19 points. The Preps only saw two teammates hit double-figure scoring with 12 points made by Mike Brown, and Luke Cano hit ten points, followed by Vines with nine points.

In the consolation game, St. Vincent got a slow start only scoring six points compared to the Eagle's 17 points at the end of the first quarter. The Spartans made a comeback in the second quarter, overpowering the Eagles by six points with a 20-14 second quarter score, but the Eagles still had the game, claiming a 31-26 half-time lead.

The Eagles continued their lead throughout the third quarter 22-11. The Spartans were able to outscore the Eagles 12-9 at the end of the fourth quarter but wasn't nearly enough as the Eagles ended out in front 62-49.

Ronald White flew the highest for Naylor scoring 25 points, followed by Emmons with 14 points.

Randy Harris was the high man for St. Vincent with 18 points, and Tim Rigden contributed 14 points to the Spartan's efforts.

Kansas collision

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The eyes of Kansas—and all Big Eight Conference basketball fans—will be in Manhattan Wednesday night when secondplace Kansas State plays host to the high-flying Kansas Jayhawks.

The stage was set Saturday when the league-leading Jayhawks went to 7-0 in the conference by cruising past Oklahoma State 80-71 in Stillwater and the Wildcats peppered Iowa State 72-56 at Ames.

Third-place Oklahoma, 6-2, bested Colorado 81-70 to complete the top triumvirate's somination away from home. Nebraska, 3-4, made Missouri an exception by stopping the visiting Tigers, 75-58, in Lincoln.

Missouri, 1-5, travels to Iowa State, 2-7, Monday night and Nebraska goes to Colorado, 3-5 Tuesday night in a faint crescendo to Wednesday night's main bout.

K-State will have to find a way to cope with KU's Danny Knight, who scored 34 points against OSU, 1-7. Kevin Fitzgerald had 20 for the Cowboys.

Kansas must contend with the two-ronged Wildcat attack of guards Lon Kruger and Danny Beard. Kruger scored 18 points and Beard 10 and both exhibited outstanding floor play against ISU, which was sparked by Larry Lotts' 13 points and 12 rebounds.

"You win by 16 points on the road and you have to be happy," said Wilcat Coach Jack Hartman. "But you can't afford to let up in the first half again—not if we want to be considered title contenders," he added, pointing to Wednesday's battle.

Dear Mr. Editor:

I would like to thank you for your printing the many UFO articles that have appeared in the Standard. I feel that it is not a subject to be laughed at nor mimiced. It cannot be proved that UFOs are from other planets or galaxies, but, if proof can be provided that they are not it would be welcomed. The people that have seen "flying saucers" are not losing their minds or always seeing weather balloons, clouds, or "swamp gases." I personally have seen a few and I am sane as far as I know. I would sincerely like to hear from anybody (sceptic or not) on the subject of FLYING SAUCERS.

Thank you,

Dear Mr. Terrell:

What a unique and delightful "All Night Sale" held at your store on Friday, January 25. I am sure it caught the imagination and attention of many Sikeston residents, as well as the surrounding communities.

We have heard many good reports about the "All Night Sale", the outstanding music furnished by Mr. Arnie Stone and the good refreshments served to everyone attending the sale. We also wish to extend our sincere thanks to Arnie Stone for the $16.64 he donated personally to the Missouri Special Olympics.

We are certainly grateful that you chose to donate the proceeds of this unusual sale to the Fifth Annual Missouri Special Olympics. Your gift of $113.00 will pay for lodging, food, insurance, uniforms, medals, etc. for 7 children from this area. Last year almost 200 children from Special Education classes and State Training Schools participated in the Regional Meet and 30 participants went on to the State Meet.

We are anticipating another successful Meet this year and are very appreciative of your support.

Book Review

Margaret Mitchell's classic novel, GONE WITH THE WIND, is now available from Avon Boooks in two separate paperback editions, as a large-format, 5"x8" Flare book ($3.95), and as a rack- sized Avon book ($1.95).

Avon paid Macmillan, the hardcover publisher, $400,000 for paperback rights to the title, one of the highest sums ever paid for re- negotiated rights on a single book.

The Avon purchase adds yet another record to GWTW's list of superlatives. One of the most- popular and bestselling books of all time, it sold a staggering 176,000 copies in the first week of sale in 1936; and has since sold approximately 15,000,000 copies in all its editions. It won the Pulitzer Prize in 1937; it has been translated into 16 foreign languages, Braille, and talking book forms; it has been made into one of Hollywood's most successful pictures, and has recently been made into a musical.

6 months after slaying, co-eds still live in fear

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP) — It's been six months now since the slaying of Teresa Sue Hilt, popular, long-haried co-ed at Northwest Missouri State University. But women students who live off-campus, are still keeping their doors locked.

The reason is they know the murder of the pretty blonde coed hasn't been solved.

They remember she was found naked, face-down on her bed, under a neatly arranged sheet.

The girl, better known as "Tess" had been strangled and stabbed in the chest and lower abdomen. Her pantyhose had been tied around her neck and her wrists bound with shoelaces. The paring knife used in the crime—a knife from Tess' kitchen—was found cupped in her hand.

Sgt. Jim Wright, a detective on the Maryville police department, has been assigned to find the killer. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hilt of Chillicothe. Her father is a state highway department employe and her mother is a realtor. They hired a Kansas City attorney to make an investigation for them and he told them finally "All you can do is just keep praying they find the killer." The parents complain they have not always been kept abreast of the investigation but acknowledge officers are "trying hard" in the case.

Even a reward fund of $2,642 hasn't brought in any new information, officials say.

Wright, who has been working on the case about four months, said he believes the killer was a woman. He noted the killer cleaned up most of the blood from the apartment and covered the slain girl neatly.

"This was too neat a job to have been done by a man," he said.

Wright, has interviewed more than 200 persons, taken fingerprints of some 150 individuals and had six persons take lie detector tests. Authorities said the polygraph tests showed none of those persons, including Edward Happel, 19, who had dated the Hilt girl, had guilty knowledge of the crime.

Tess' body was found on the afternoon of Aug. 4 when Happel, puzzled because she did not answer the telephone, went to her apartment in the College Gardens Apartment complex just east of the university campus. Tess had been at a party until 10 or 11 on the evening of Aug. 3 and then went to Happel's apartment, in the same complex. She left there at 2 on the morning of Aug. 4 when two friends came to see Happel. She told the trio she was going to her apartment, just 60 feet away in another building across the grassy area.

Wright said he believes she met her murder —someone she knew—in that short space. Wright said two of the three adjoining apartments were occupied but no one heard any unusual sound or disturbance in the Hilt apartment.

Authorities have devoted considerable attention to a thesis Tess was writing, dealing with alcohol and drug use on the Maryville campus. Her parents complain they have never been allowed to see the document.

Officials checked tape recordings made by Tess also. In most of them she just sang or talked but never mentioned any names. The tapes sometimes touched on her interviews with alcoholics.

The autopsy showed Tess was a virgin and Investigator Wright says this reinforces his belief a woman was the killer.

The Hilts say Tess would take an occasional drink and Wright said he had confirmed the girl was not much of a drinker. "She'd take one drink at a party and nurse the drink all evening long," he said.

'Electric bakery' to open soon

50 years ago
February 11, 1924

E. A. Moseley of Clayton, Mo., has rented the room in the Cole Building next door to the Peoples Bank and now occupied by the Cash Grocery, and expects to open an "Electric Bakery" in the room about the first of March. He expects to equip his bakery with the very latest machinery and will have as sanitary a bakery as can be found in the Central West. The Cash Grocery will vacate the room at an early date, moving into the rooms now occupied by the Farmers Supply Grocery and Hardware Co., who will go to the Young- Mayfield building opposite the Missouri Pacific Station just as soon as that building is ready for occupancy.

What's the law?

The case of the talented husband

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When it came to juggling books and records, Alfredo could have gotten a job with Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus. He was so proficient at it, in fact, that over a period of time he managed to embezzle over $150,000 from the company for which he worked and received only compliments on his bookkeeping talents.

But then, one day, there was an audit and that was it. Alfredo and his talents were shipped off to the pokey for his skulduggery.

Meanwhile, back at home, Alfredo's lovely wife, who had been totally oblivious to her husband's hanky- panky, was being harassed by the government. Since Alfredo had no money to pay taxes, the Internal Revenue Service insisted that she pay the income taxes due on the embezzled funds.

"Since you signed a joint return with Alfredo," she was told, "you're just as responsible for all taxes due on unreported income."

"You're mad!" retorted Alfredo's wife. "I had no idea my husband was an embezzler. Nor did I see a penny of his tainted money. As for the joint return, I did what every other American wife does. My husband gave me the form, told me to sign it and I did. That doesn't make me responsible. It only makes me naive like every other wife."

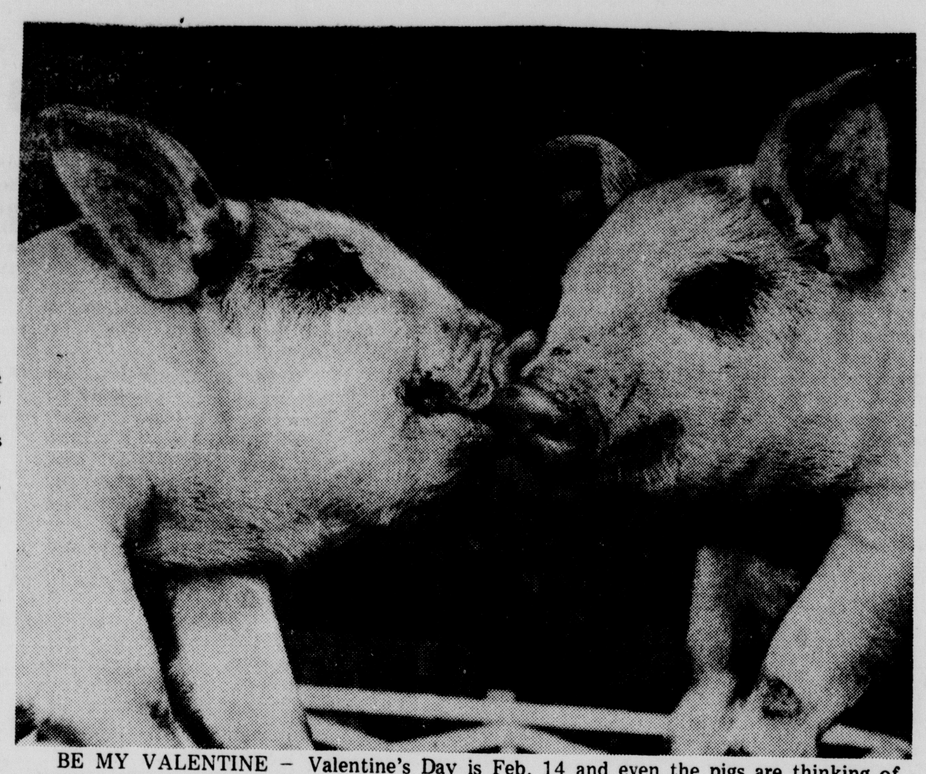

The dispute ended up in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Alfredo's wife pay the tax due?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that in signing a joint income tax return, in the absence of fraud, the parties so signing become individually and jointly responsible for its accuracy and for the total tax due under the return whether properly reported or not.

And, concluded the judge, a husband's failure to tell his wife that their joint return does not include monies embezzled by him does not constitute such fraud.

(Based upon a 1970 United States Tax Court Decision)

BE MY VALENTINE – Valentine's Day is Feb. 14 and even the pigs are thinking of romance. These affectionate porkers were photographed on the farm of Ralph Linhardt, Route 4, Sedalia, who raises pigs for the MFA Tel-O-Auction. The pigs are a Hampshire and Yorkshire cross.

Prayer for today
from the Upper Room

Put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ. (Romans 13:14)

PRAYER: O Lord, You know my weakness and my selfishness. Come into my heart through faith and shape me after Your will. Let Your will be done in my heart in such a way that I can love my fellowmen as You love them. Amen.

Many sea gulls follow the plow rather than go to sea. Sea gulls seldom venture beyond landfall, and few visit the empty stretches of the ocean. But they often show up hundreds of miles inland to scavenge city dumps, pick up worms behind plows, and nest in woodland treetops.

8 hurt in area accidents

A Sikeston man was among eight persons injured in three area traffic accidents over the weekend, according to the highway patrol.

George A. Morris, 26, of Sikeston was slightly injured at 11:50 p.m. Saturday on Highway 67 three miles north of Fredericktown when his northbound car crossed the center line, ran onto the shoulder on the wrong side, and came back across the road and struck a car in the southbound lane.

Also injured were the driver of the other car, Freeman C. Fouts, 36, of High Ridge and Mary Ruth Fouts, 35, Freeman C. Fouts, 15, and Gail Marie Fouts, 14.

All five were taken to Madison County Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries.

A one- vehicle car accident at 7 p.m. Saturday three miles north of Poplar Bluff on Route 0 resulted in serious injuries to a passenger, Sharon Wright, 21, of Poplar Bluff.

See No. 1 Page 10.

3 thefts reported to police

Thefts of three tape players were reported to police over the weekend.

John Cray, 324 Selma, told police that a tape player was taken from his van truck parked at the city garage on North West Street sometime between Nov. 8 and Sunday.

The tape player was valued at $93.

Guy Jenkins, 104 Sixth St., told police that a tape player was taken from his home between 2 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Friday. Entry was gained by forcing open a window, police said.

The tape player was valued at $130.

Walter Kearby, 231 Handy St., told police that a tape player was taken from his house sometime between 9:30 p.m. Feb. 2 and 9:40 a.m. Sunday. Also taken were speakers for the stereo.

The tape player was valued at $70.

Police said there was no sign of forced entry.

Cookie gets her ride

At long last, Cookie's interrupted trip to Florida resumed this morning. The long- haired dachshund became separated from her owner in early January when the family stopped in Sikeston while moving from St. Joseph to Ocala, Fla. Her trip resumed at 1:30 a.m. today when Gerald Clark, left, of St. Joseph picked up Cookie at the police station from humane officer Bob Beardsley, right, to take her to Ocala, for a reunion with the family of her owner, David Jackson. Cookie has been staying at the Beardsley home since she was found near Barkett's Big Star Market by Mrs. Peggy Bone, 928 Linn St., and turned over to Beardsley.

Police to stress methods to help crime prevention

Crime Prevention Week in Sikeston began Sunday under sponsorship of the Sikeston Exchange Club. To help area residents learn how to prevent crimes, the Sikeston police department has prepared a list of things everyone can do for personal protection and to protect property. This week — Feb. 10-16 — is also National Crime Prevention week, which is sponsored by the National Exchange Club.

Over two million burglaries occur nationally each year — one every 15 seconds — according to figures provided by the Sikeston police department.

Citizens can reduce the chance of becoming a target for burglars by using a little extra care and a little extra thought about the security of the home and neighborhood.

Most people actually make it easy for burglars to work when windows and doors are left unlocked, making entry simple even to the least experienced burglar.

Obvious signs of absence give a burglar confidence that he can work undisturbed.

Lack of interest and concern by neighbors and passers- by help can give a thief ample time to burglarize a home.

Failure to cooperate with police and failure to report losses quickly make police work more difficult and cause apprehension of the burglar to be more difficult.

Inability to describe personal property and lack of inventories make recovery and identification difficult.

Further rules prepared by the police department will be presented during the week.

Wilburn dies of injuries

Injuries received Thursday, when he was run over by a tractor- trailer truck loaded with gravel proved fatal to Melvin B. Wilburn, 56, of 302 S. Stoddard St., who died at 3:56 p.m. Friday in Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

He had been listed in critical condition since being admitted to the hospital with multiple fractures and internal injuries following the freak mishap which occurred at 2:12 p.m. Thursday at the Agrico Chemical Co. plant, 1600 W. Malone Ave.

Police said Wilburn was run over by a truck driven by John Ikerman, 36, of Benton, Box 263, who was backing up to unload 73,000 pounds of gravel.

Wilburn, a foreman at the plant, apparently had fallen

U.S. energy plan revealed today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger opened a 13-nation energy conference today with a plea for "positive and productive dialogue" between oil producing and oil consuming nations.

Addressing more than 100 delegates from 13 countries which consume 85 per cent of the world's petroleum, Kissinger outlined a seven point program for meeting the current energy crisis.

Kissinger called on the countries represented at the conference to join the United States in conserving fuel to reduce pressures on world supply.

He also suggested that efforts be made to develop alternate sources of energy and called for emergency energy sharing by the oil consuming nations.

Kissinger's seven-point program also included proposals for international financial cooperation, increased research and development on energy matters and immediate consultation and collaboration with the developing nations, whose needs he said are particularly urgent.

However, Kissinger said the ultimate goal must be to create a cooperative framework in which oil producers and oil consumers will accommodate their differences and reconcile their needs and aspirations.

The producing nations must be given a secure stake in an expanding world economy and the consuming nations a secure source of supply, Kissinger said.

He said the United States believes that another conference of consumers should be called at the foreign ministers level which would include representatives of the less-developed countries.

He said this would lead to a third conference of consumers and producers, with the entire process to be completed by May 1.

"As we look toward the end of this century we know that the energy crisis indicates the birth pains of global interdependence," Kissinger said. "Our response could well determine our capacity to deal with the international agenda of the future."

Reorganization bill will be signed this week by Bond

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Legislative action this week will be highlighted Wednesday afternoon when Gov. Christopher S. Bond will sign a reorganization bill that cleared the legislature in the special session.

A signing ceremony was scheduled for 1:30 p.m. in the Capitol rotunda.

Meanwhile plans to put reorganization into effect have been handed to both houses by the governor.

The newly passed 55 miles per hour speed limit bill that goes into effect March 4 is also expected to be signed into law by Bond this week. It was also a special session product.

Orders have already gone out to the state Highway Department to print adhesive overlays that will cover up the numerals 70 and 60 on existing signs.

The Senate president pro tem, Clinton Democrat William Cason, says he will call the Senate into a meeting as a committee of the whole to debate and write, on the Senate floor, sections amending the new open meetings law.

Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R Brentwood, saying the closed arrest records section is causing problems, succeeded on a 16-11 vote in getting preliminary approval of a bill repleading the closed records section.

Cason said he hoped to find a way to keep the records open for law enforcement agencies but prevent the public from knowing about them. The bill requires that the records are closed 30 days after the arrest, unless the arrest results in a court trial, and are expunged after the trial if the person is not convicted.

There have been reports that some judges are keeping the outcome of a case secret if the person was not convicted. But Cason said the bill was not intended to prevent public knowledge of the disposition of the case.

One of the session's major socalled "people bills," that could lead to tax relief for some Missourians, will likely receive attetnion in the Senate this week.

The bill is a repeal of the state personal property tax on household goods, passed in the House Thursday 148-0.

The repeal bill is expected to cost local governments who collected the tax about $14 million in lost revenue.

A bill to reinstate the death penalty also will receive House action this week. The bill makes execution mandatory for 12 categories of crimes. The bill's sponsor, Rep. Bob Griffin, D-Cameron, said the bill would pass a constitutional test.

There is strong opposition to the bill in both houses, however.

In Senate action, the Appropriations Committee, after completing weeks of hearings last month, will send it srecommendations of who should get what state money to the Senate floor.

Committee Chairman Norman Merrell, D-Monticello, has said in view of state deficits, agency requests will have to be cut in many areas.

Merrell has said, "we're faced with the same problems of runaway inflation during a recession. I don't have the anser to either."

Major items, in the state's expected $2 billion budget, upon which his committee will decide are: a $15 million boost in the University of Missouri budget that has been called necessary to prevent program cutbacks; a $2 million boost in the budget of the state mental hospital at Fulton, whose director called the hospital "broke;" and funds that would make the average teacher's yearly pay in Missouri $10,074 per year.

Also in the House, a bill that would ban pyramid sales schemes is up for final passage.

Voters too smart to let Watergate stain GOP, Bond tells Republicans

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond stopped short of defending President Nixon in his Lincoln Day remarks over the weekend.

But he said Missouri voters are too smart to think the Watergate scandal is "a product or reflection of the Republican Party, either nationally or in Missouri."

Asked later if he would defend Nixon's a tions in connection with Watergate, Bond replied: "I don't have the full facts to conduct a defense."

U.S. Rep. John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., now the minority leader of the House, delivered the main speech before more than 500 persons Saturday night, saying Nixon "will go down in history as being one of the great presidents of this nation."

"The administration has made great strides in many fields," including foreign policy and bringing increased employment and private assets, Rhodes said.

On Watergate, he said "Our party didn't do it. The Committee to Re-elect separated itself from our party leaders....the President has not been found to have been either the director or a participant in Watergate."

Rhodes said the Democrats are trying to destroy the administration and by "cheering on a recession" are doing a disservice to the people. He predicted that if an impeachment resolution is voted out of committee "the full House of Representatives will not pass that resolution of impeachment."

There was much private discussion at the three-day affair about who would run against incumbent Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton this year if the leading contender, Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, decides not to run. Danforth said it will be several weeks before he makes a decision on the race. He lost when trying to unseat Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., in 1970.

Thomas B. Curtis, former congressman from Webster Groves, said that while he has not announced for the race, he has obliged supporters by "not saying no."

Mrs. Rosemary Ginn of Columbia, Republican national committeewoman, was given the award for being the state's outstanding Republican last year. She said she hoped Danforth would make the race, but if he didn't, "I'd look at it."

Eagleton was criticized at the affair in connection with his having been dropped as a vice presidential candidate in 1972. Albert Rendlen, Jr., state GOP chairman, said: "If Thomas Eagleton was not good enough for Humpty Dumpty George McGovern, how can he be good enough for the people of Missouri?"

Eagleton's vote against the confirmation of Gerald Ford as vice president was criticized by U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor, R-Mo. Taylor said Eagleton was "always a little different," but then added that maybe Eagleton should know something about it. "He had the qualifications for vice president explained in detail to him one time."

Some holdouts continue

Truckers strike appears nearly over

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The often-violent strike by dozens of groups of disorganized independent truck drivers appeared all but over today.

There were several thousand holdouts who continued to insist they would not climb back in their rigs until diesel fuel prices are rolled back. But their numbers did not appear to be nearly enough to cause the economic hardships which resulted in a quick settlement proposal last Thursday in Washington, D.C.

Key federal officials said it looked to them like the strike was over.

Truck traffic climbed to near prestrike levels Sunday and early today, and violence was down sharply.

However, police in Beaumont, Tex., said a driver was showered with glass early today when a bullet slammed through the window of his moving truck. State police in Kentucky said four trucks were hit by bullets Sunday night, causing minor damage.

Earlier in the strike, violence took the lives of two drivers and several were injured.

At least 15,000 of the 100,000 persons laid off at the height of the 11-day shutdown were due back on the job today as many big rigs headed for markets loaded with meat, produce and industrial parts.

There was little doubt that the strike's effects would linger. Spot shortages of some foods were certain to keep meat and produce prices at high levels until supplies can be replenished.

Another certain effect is the six per cent surcharge independent drivers will now be getting for their cargoes. Those increases will eventually be picked up by consumers.

Most of the major organizations involved in the strike that won guaranteed supplies of diesel fuel and higher freight rates for the independent drivers urged their men to be back on the job today.

Reports received Sunday from several areas where the strike had its biggest effects indicated many of them were already there.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp, the man who got the settlement talks started, said truck traffic had increased in his state by 60 to 75 per cent. The Perlis Truck Stop, located in Cordele, Ga., on the main north-south route along the Eastern seaboard, said Sunday night its business was 70 per cent of normal.

Truck traffic was reported up in Ohio. In West Virginia, officials said it looked as if truck traffic was nearly normal. Similar reports were received from several Midwest states.

With violence sharply down, the Pennsylvania National Guard was withdrawing its patrols Sunday night. There was to be an end to Guard patrols on highways in the state which suffered what appeared to be the worst violence during the strike, although a 3,000-man Guard contingent was placed on special alert status.

In Pittsburgh, the chairman of the Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers told his membership Sunday night to resume driving today. William J. Hill, who heads what was believed to be the largest group involved in the shutdown, said the vast majority of steel haulers' locals had overwhelming approved the proposed settlement.

Groups of potato-hauling drivers approved the settlement Sunday in Wisconsin and Maine. Some of the drivers at the Maine meeting immediately climbed into loaded rigs and headed down the road.

Tommy Thompson, a strike leader in East Point, Ga., said Sunday he was urging his men back to work. On Friday Thompson vowed he and his Georgia supporters would continue striking for lower fuel prices.

An association which claims to represent all truck stop owners in Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and New Mexico voted Sunday to keep their establishments open. Voluntary and forced closings of truck stops had been a major weapon used by strikers to keep truck traffic down.

There was also continued resistance. However, it was not clear if the dissident groups would be able to keep all or most of their men off the roads. Most of the groups sprung up virtually overnight when higher costs began to pinch the independents who do not work on hourly rates. And many independents have continued to express their displeasure at belonging to any union-type organization.

A voice vote at a meeting of 1,200 independents Sunday in St. Paul, Minn., approved a continuation of the strike until 11 demands are met. Included was a demand for a rollback in diesel fuel prices from the current average of about 48 cents a gallon to 35.9 cents.

The Independent Truckers Coalition, which claims to represent 3,000 drivers, voted Sunday in Alton, Ill., to reject the settlement. The Ohio Council of Independent Truckers, a major initiator of the strike, voted in Barberton, Ohio, Sunday to stay out of their rigs.

Members of that group said they had also fired their attorney, J. Leonard Fleet, because he "sold the rank and file out." Fleet was one of the truckers' negotiators in the Washington talks.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

I finally found something to take my mind off the energy crisis — my income tax form arrived in the mail.

* * *

A REALISTIC MISSION:
YOU CAN HELP
MAKE IT HAPPEN

The American Heart Association has had one mission since its founding as a national voluntary health agency in 1948: reduction of premature death and disability due to cardiovascular diseases.

Heart diseases are too many and too complex to hope for a total cure. But a reduction of the apalling toll of lives of this modern- day epidemic is realistic. And it is being achieved in even greater proportion though the support you give to the Heart Fund campaign now in progress across the nation.

Heart Fund dollars support research leading to new surgical techniques that correct once- fatal inborn and acquired heart defects. Heart Fund dollars that financed development of the heart- lung machine now support work leading to the development of mechanical devices to augment effective circulation, such as "booster" heart pumps and pacemakers. Heart Fund dollars help make possible such things as the replacement of defective heart valves. Heart Fund dollars aid scientists in their discovery of new drugs which enhance recovery and prolong life.

At the local level, a part of each dollar you contribute goes to support programs in your community to alert citizens to the early warning signs of heart attack and stroke; to uncover hidden hypertensives and get them under treatment; and to help people reduce their risk of heart diseases. Your money comes back to you in a vast array of informational materials and community education programs. And it supports local research that could have far- reaching effects on your town, and communities around the world.

Despite these achievements, heart and blood vessel diseases continue to claim more than one million lives each year, or 53 per cent of deaths from all causes. An estimated 27 million Americans have cardiovascular diseases. And more than 875,000 died last year from heart attack or stroke.

The statistics are appalling. They must be lowered. Time and money are two major ingredients to further the mission of the Heart Association. Volunteer your time to help the Heart Association. And give generously when your Heart Fund volunteer calls. You can help make it happen.

MEDICINE AT WORK

An idea of the scope of the U. S. medical system can be gained from the Annual Report of the American Medical Association's executive vice president, Ernest B. Howard, M. D. The report was recently published in abstract form for the information of all physicians.

In the words of Dr. Howard: "The AMA is a large and complex organization whose wide- ranging, diversified activities are probably unmatched by any voluntary agency in the world." The activities of the AMA in behalf of higher health and medical care standards touch the life of virtually everone in the country. Committees of the AMA deal with such vital matters as maternal and child health, blood banking, human sexuality, scientific assembly and post graduate education, prescription drugs, medical education, foundations for medical care, rural health and so on ad infinitum. Says Dr. Howard: 'In one day at the AMA there are 700 long distance telephone calls received ...8,000 to 10,000 pieces of first class mail ... Each year we receive 50,000 requests from the general public for help and information and many thousands more ... from physicians ... Throughout the course of the year the AMA sponsors 400 scientific lectures, 400 scientific exhibits and 300 exhibits on drugs ... We have received and distributed over $35 million to medical schools in this country."

It is literally impossible to comprehend the scope of the American Medical Association. Dr. Howard's report on the activities of the Association provies a glimpse of the work-day life of medicine that the public can neither see nor grasp -- and yet it is the primary beneficiary of this monumental effort in behalf of good health.

The chief grunted, "It heap good for railroad."

TWO GOLDEN DAYS

There are two days of the week upon which and about which I never worry. Two care-free days kept sacredly free from fear and apprehension. One of these days is yesterday; with all its pains and aches, all its faults and blunders, it has passed forever beyond the reach of my recall. Save for the beautiful memories, sweet and tender, that linger like the perfume of roses in the heart of the day that has gone, I have nothing to do with yesterday. It was mine; it is God's.

And the other day I do not worry about is tomorrow, with all its possibilities, adversities, its burdens, its perils, its large promise. Its sun will rise in roseate splendor, or behind a mask of clouds. But it will rise. Tomorrow — it will be mine.

There is left for myself, then, but one day of the week — today. Any man can fight the battles of today. Any woman can carry the burdens of just one day.

Therefore, I think, and I do, and I journey for but one day at a time. And while faithfully and dutifully I run my course, and work my appointed task on this one day, God the Almighty takes care of yesterday and tomorrow.

STOPPING LEVIATHAN

That penetrating economic analyst and columnist Dr. Milton Friedman had some things to say about big government in one of his recent columns that should be instructive to a generation of voters and taxpayers who have never known anything other than big government.

Dr. Friendman calls big government "Leviathan" -- the legendary monster of the seas. So far as government spending and taxes go, he observes, "Neither a legislated ceiling nor any other administrative devices designed to improve the budgetary process -- welcome though they would be -- will halt Leviathan unless we, as citizens, once again change drastically the role that we assign to government." Back in 1930, federal government spending took four per cent of the national income; state and local spending, 11 per cent. Today the combined outgo of federal, state and local spending accounts for about 40 per cent of the income of all citizens. This is the price today's generation pays for accepting government as a keeper rathern than an umpire.

Denny then shook his head. "The part I see is white." He would give the ball a turn — the other half was white.

"We could never agree on the color of this ball," he pointed out, "unless you knew my point of view, and unless I realized you were looking at it from another point of ivew. Many disagreements could be settled if people would only look at both sides of the ball."

PLAIN TALK

Patriotism isn't marching behind a band and puffing out your chest. Patriotism isn't a flash of fireworks one day of the year, and then submerging one's emotions the rest of the year. Patriotism isn't found in the whooping of the crowd of maudlin flag- waving.

Patriotism is the sum of the three cardinal virtues: Faith, Hope, and Charity. Faith in the principles of our government; Hope in the future of our country; Charity toward all and malice toward none.

Patriotism is the emotion that makes a lump rise in the throat when some intrepid spirit strives to achieve something that no human being ever before achieved.

Patriotism is to be unashamed at the moisture that comes welling up in our tear-ducts with the passing of some great and nobel soul, who unselfishly devoted his life to the cause of mankind.

Patriotism is loving one's country, respecting its traditions, and honoring its people, whether high or low, rich or poor.

PEOPLE— CONTROLLERS NEVER LEARN

A couple of years ago seasoned campaigners for freedom saw the specter of price controls looming behind the demagogic bleatings of network commentators, Ralph Nader and ambitious politicians. For years, farmers and ranchers and livestock feeders had been taking a beating because of their efficiency in meeting rising demand for their meat and other food products at low prices in a free market.

Then a combination of circumstances, such as sending millions of bushels of grain to communist countries subsidized by U. S. taxpayers, plus skyrocketing demand, sent prices up at last to where more beef growers could stay in business.

Many wise voices congratulated the good sense of the people and the government in resisting rash demands for food price controls. Then the President caved into the leftwing people-controllers. Price controls went on at retail. Farmers, unable to afford the rising price of feed, had to curtail meat and poultry production.

Instead of having meat at a price at which producers could stay in business, we had lower prices-- and no meat. We did the same foolish thing after World War II. We never seem to learn. Now the Naders and the Jacksons are demanding that oil producers be driven out of business and that the little fuel, then produced be allocated politically, rather than in the marketplace. The people's voices must be heard soon if we are not to do without fuel. HLH

Gullible Rank and File:
How One Communist, Capturing One Union Smashed Strength of One Nation

PITTSBURGH-- Can a single union, strategically placed, smash the economy, sap the strength and crumble the incumbent government of a major nation? This question was asked time and again here the other night at a gathering of influential citizens in the gut of this country's vital soft coal and steel communities. The answer is-- yes.

Can it happen here? The answer again is-- yes.

Motivations in America may differ sharply from those in Britain where the Communist- dominated National Union of Mineworkers (NUM) has been attempting just that. But the impact could be the same if an increasingly undisciplined coal-digging rank- and- file continues to harass the American United Mine Workers president Arnold Miller. He is beleaguered as he attempts to convince his 110,000 followers that by reforming the union he doesn't intend to transform the coal fields into Palm Springs with Las Vegas attached.

Here the miners want instant pie in the sky. In Britain the men of the pits have followed a leader, devoted to Moscow's policies, who has sought to crush the government by provoking a national general strike which would paralyze the entire country.

Though the motivation differs, a long coal- field strike beginning at contract's end in November, also would crumble the American economy as it has Britain's under the miners' assault there.

Few Americans have bothered to look deeply into Britain's plight or how it was pushed into its economic swamp by just one man tied to the 29,000 member Communist party of Great Britain. This man is Mick McGahey, NUM's vice president, who even has boasted he would attempt to disaffect the Crown's army if it attempted to prevent sabotage of the nationalized British coal mines.

McGahey's tactics have been startlingly brilliant indeed. They have all the slick and subtle dexterity of the world Communist movement.

Small wonder. Few realize that McGahey, who has whipped the United Kingdom into chaos, is a top member of the British Communist Party's Political Bureau (Politburo). There is solid reason to believe he could not hold this post without the approval of the USSR Communist party central committee.

His power base is the Scottish miners federation. And I recall when I was at a Glasgow (Scotland) labor banquet, not too long ago, I sat cheek by jowl with a chap who was one of the miners' union publication's top editors. He spoke of himself as an avowed Communist. He had as little use for the Labor party as he did for the Conservatives. He loathed America.

Communist control of the British miners goes a long way back. But suffice to pick this story up in 1966 when the Communist party organized a front called "The Liaison Committee For the Defense of Trade Unions." Its objective was to push the 10- million- member Trades Union Congress (TUC, the counterpart of the AFL- CIO) far to the left. McGahey, one of the Liaison Committee leaders, planted his people in many miners branches (locals). There, as here, few members turn out for meetings. So the Communists easily pushed through their resolutions on everything from war to a ban on overtime work in the mines.

Thus at a strategic moment, when the miners began their fight against Britain's wage-price control Stage (Phase) 3, McGahey had enough resolutions calling for the ban on overtime work (very essential in oil- short Britian) to boast:

"The unanimous vote on the (miners) National Executive Committee did not occur because every individual member personally wanted it that way. The vote occurred because the currents of rank-and- file pressure in all areas of the union are too strong for any NEC representative to ignore." McGahey obviously controlled the apparatus-- the Communist party's infrastructure inside the miners.

Thus he controls the closely knit caucus of six Communist members of the union's 27-man Executive Committee. And anyone who has fought the Communists during their come early, stay late, outwear-the- opposition tactics knows that six tightly disciplined men are enough to beat the majority-- especially when that majority has a number of fellow traveller sleepers in it. So McGahey got his way-- no overtime and then a successful strike vote.

McGahey knows his Stalinist strategy including the picketing of powerhouses. No coal, no power, no Britain. The "tactic" was masterful.

McGahey reckoned correctly that Prime Minister Heath would be forced into cutting down the industrial and commercial life of his nation. The three- day week has been costing almost a billion dollars a fortnight.

Then would come a strike appeal against the threat of troop action in the mine fields. McGahey believed the labor movement would back him with a general strike-- an awesome weapon. Nothing new. British labor called one back in 1926.

Prime Minister Heath went on the tube and charged the Communists with attempting to smash his government and replace it with a left- wing coalition which would take Communist bidding. "Toe the line," is how the Prime Minister put it. Mr. Heath, in effect, said this was not a trade union drive for wages but a Communist political strike.

Much damage has been done. Britain won't recover for a long time. The responsibility rests on the 269,000 British-Scottish miners. They had justifiable grievances. The British mines are almost as ancient as paleolithic caves. But they threw away their heritage of freedom by following too greedily those who promised them the moon and lots of sixpence.

And if America's miners mistake moonglow for realism and don't heed their responsible leaders, it could happen here.

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON & LES WHITTEN SAYS:
Kennedy Space Center:
Is It a Fire Hazard?

WASHINGTON-- Billions of dollars in equipment and research could go up in smoke at the Kennedy Space Center because of economy moves which will leave the base dangerously short on fire protection.

Major fire damage to America's launching facility would scratch the planned 1975 Soviet- American space venture as well, thus erasing one of the most promising symbols of world detente.

As of this week, the base will be protected from 3 p.m. to 7 a.m. daily by only eight on- duty firefighters. This skeleton crew is not even large enough to man the $750,000 worth of fire equipment, let alone fight a conflagration.

There are 990,000 gallons of liquid oxygen, 800,000 gallons of liquid hydrogen, plus rocket propellants to stoke a flash fire on the 800,000- acre facility. To make matters worse, the government does not insure any of its property, and additional firefighting help is at least 15 minutes away.

What firemen fear most, however, is a repeat of the Jan. 27, 1968, fire burst which took the lives of astronauts Gus Grissom, Ed White and Roger Chaffee. Astronauts are still training at the Kennedy Space Center in altitude chambers, research is being conducted and hundreds of tourists visit the base regularly.

The Boeing Company, which holds a $24.5 million contract to provide the space center with fire protection, plans to lay off 21 firemen and shift others to lower- paying jobs.

FOOTNOTE: A Boeing spokesman told our associate Jack Cloherty that the cutbacks were implemented because there will be no manned space flights until 1975. Boeing contends that the base is adequately protected. A National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman backed up Boeing, saying the cuts were necessary. He said, in any case, local crews were within five, not fifteen, minutes of the center.

HAIRY PROBLEM: On Christmas day, seven years ago, Judy Braiman, now president of the Consumers Association of New York, developed a cough and began spitting up blood. The doctors opened her chest and discovered up to 60 "rounded nodules" in her lungs. According to a report by her doctor, a pathologist determined that the nodules were "inhalation abscesses."

Continued the physician's report:

"Clinical history established that the patient had been exposed abundantly to a variety of hair sprays. When asked to produce some of these her husband quickly brought to the laboratory eight different commercial spray products ranging from oven cleaners to hair conditioners. One of the latter, the largest can and reportedly the patient's favorite hair spray (Bonat- Enhance) was especially fortified with protein."

Subsequent tests, the doctor reported, determined that "of the seven spray materials used by this patient in her home, her favorite hair spray mentioned above" was the only one chemically similar to the substance in her lungs.

"In view of these findings," the doctor concluded, "the pathologist strongly supported the diagnosis of 'thesaurosis' due to hair spray inhalation."

Last Dec. 3, Mrs. Braiman informed the cosmetics company that she planned to "mention Bonat's product" on an upcoming television show highlighting "the hazards of cosmetics." She also notified the firm that she had sent her data to a Senate subcommittee studying health dangers from aerosols.

Two weeks later, the president of the firm, Jerome Bonat, threatened to haul her into court. "Please be advised," he wrote, "that should your threat to allege on your next television show that your personal injury was caused by a product of ours, you will be accountable for such allegation and suit will be instituted against you personally and against the association for all damages which might be sustained as a consequence."

We spoke with Jack Fleurides, marketing manager for Bonat, who explained to us that the company's tests showed Enhance hairspray could not have been the reason for Mrs. Braiman's injury. But the feisty consumer advocate said she is still planning to air her aerosol charges on television.

FOOTNOTE: As we have reported earlier, a growing body of scientific evidence indicates aerosol sprays "contain chemicals which may sear the eyes, damage the lungs and weaken the heart."

CHRISTMAS CHISEL: Vice Admiral William Behrens Jr., the naval deputy to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, found a nifty way to save money on Christmas cards. He simply mailed them out in official, franked envelopes.

A number of the admiral's acquaintances ripped into the envelopes, marked "official business, penalty for private use $300," to find a card bearing the traditional holiday greeting plus a handwritten "Merry Christmas and Best Wishes."

According to Admiral Behrens, he mailed about 400 cards but used official envelopes only for "professional associates." First he told us that such "associates" comprised about half of his mailing list. Later, he insisted that just "a few cards" had been mailed out courtesy of the taxpayer.

Eberly arrested in robbery

William Theodore Eberly, Compress Road, has been arrested for strong- armed robbery in connection with the theft of $380 from the apartment of Merle Masterson, 231 N. Handy St.

Masterson was hit on the head and robbed in his apartment Thursday night, police said.

Eberly was also arrested for carrying a concealed weapon.

James C. Rose of Memphis, Tenn. was arrested Friday for possession of controlled substances, driving while intoxicated and improper registration.

Other arrests announced today include:

Walter Leroy Frankum, 1718 Oklahoma, driving while intoxicated, driving on a revoked license, no city sticker and improper registration; Samuel Marshall of Sikeston and James Herron, 225 Alabama St., no city sticker; Robert Lee Porter, Dunn Hotel, assault with a dangerous weapon; Peggy Ann Green, 1706 Ford, two counts of peace disturbance; and Shirley Marie Stevenson, 332 Sunset Drive, two counts of peace disturbance.

Saddie Ann Green, 1706 Ford, peace disturbance; Jack Lee Beckwith, 608 Blanton, careless and imprudent driving, speeding and no driver's license; Gloria Jean Baker, 1706 Ford St., two counts of peace disturbance; Alice Agee, 213 Petty, destruction of private property and peace disturbance; Jane Annette Shelby, 405 Missouri, driving while intoxicated.

Dianna Brown, 218 Alabama, three counts assault and battery; Francis Marie Brown, 209 Moore, careless and imprudent driving; Sammy Melvin Crider, 203 Adams, assault and battery; Robert Lyle Morphis, 1724 Oklahoma, public intoxidation; and Robert Henry Wallace, 134 Fourth St., peace disturbance.

Anti-Nixon student is booed down

Conn. (AP) — A college sophomore invited to present an opposing view before the Connecticut Committee for Fairness to the Presidency was booed off the stage before she finished her speech.

Committee Chairman Joseph Raines had asked Lynda Hill, a 19-year-old student at Central Connecticut State College, to address 100 local members of the pro-President Nixon group Sunday.

In his introduction, Raines told the anti-impeachment group that it was necessary "that we hear both sides of this very important issue."

Lucemobile to visit MissCo

CHARLESTON — The Lucemobile, a learning center on wheels from the Cooperative Extension Service of Lincoln University and University of Missouri, will be in Mississippi County this week.

The teaching van, operated by Lance and Valerie Powell offers home repair and improvement tips through actual demonstration and the aid of audio- visual teaching equipment.

Today it visited the Housing Authority Community building on West Iron Banks Road in Charleston.

Tuesday the Lucemobile will be at the Housing Authority Betts Addition in Charleston from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

On Wednesday, the van will move to Wilson City, and Thursday it will be at East Prairie High School from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday it will be located at Checkerboard Square in East Prairie from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Last week it visited locations in Scott County. It will move to Stoddard County Feb. 18-21, then visit New Madrid, Dunklin and Pemiscot counties in March.

Howardville man charged with stabbing youth

NEW MADRID — Curtis Washington of Howardville was charged today with felonious assault in connection with the stabbing Sunday of Joseph Hill 17, of Howardville.

Washington waived preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court and was bound over to Circuit Court under $1,000 bond.

Hill reportedly was stabbed six times in the back and was hospitalized at Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Some states begin plan of alternate day gasoline

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thousands of drivers in four states and the nation's capital today joined the ranks of Americans buying their gasoline on alternate days according to their license plate numbers.

New Jersey was the only one of the four states to make the plan mandatory. Massachusetts, New York and Washington made their versions of the gasoline-distribution system voluntary, as did Washington, D.C.

Under the plans, motorists with even-numbered license plates are allowed to buy gas on even-numbered days. Those with odd-numbered tags can buy gas on odd-numbered days.

Since today is the 11th, the plans allow cars with odd-numbered tags to have first try at the pumps. Even-numbered licenses have their turn Tuesday.

Oregon was the first state to institute such a distribution system. Its voluntary plan went into effect Jan. 14. Hawaii put motorists on the Island of Oahu under a similar, but mandatory, plan on Jan. 28.

New Jersey's mandatory plan prohibits sales to drivers whose cars have half a tank of gasoline or more. However, it also requires dealers to sell at least five gallons to qualifying motorists.

Fines for any violation begin at not less than $100 for the first offense, not less than $200 for the second and not less than $500 and imprisonment for the third offense.

Under New York State's voluntary system, motorists were asked to buy gas only if it was really needed and in no case until their tanks were at least half empty. Massachusett's plan suggested a $3 minimum purchase.

In another gasoline development over the weekend, the Federal Energy Office announced a plan to redistribute gasoline allocations among the states. Twelve states and the District of Columbia will get more gas under the plan; 10 states will get less.

A spokesman for the office said the redistribution was intended to give the areas an amount closer to their original allocation. He said some states with shortages were not included because they were receiving the amount of gas originally allocated to them.

States receiving more are: Arkansas, Delaware, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Maine, Mississippi, New Jersey, North Carolina, Texas, Virginia and Tennessee. Those getting less are: Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, New Mexico, North and South Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Simon asks increase in production

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal energy chief William E. Simon has asked refiners with adequate distillate and residual fuel supplies to increase their gasoline production to alleviate some of the shortages.

Simon, in a statement Sunday, said some refiners already have shifted to more gasoline production.

Warm weather plus energy conservation practices by the public have been the main reasons for the build-up in distillate stocks, said Simon.

Distillates include home heating oil and diesel fuel. Residual fuel oil is used in power plants, ships and some building heating.

Meanwhile, five states today joined the growing number of areas across the nation implementing a voluntary staggered day gasoline servicing program. Starting the so-called Oregon plan today are New Jersey, the District of Columbia, Washington state, New York and Massachusetts. Maryland was to begin the plan Tuesday.

The Senate has scheduled a vote on the bill for Tuesday, Feb. 19, but first it must survive an attempt by Republicans and oil-state senators to recommit it once again to a conference with the House.

Russian author issued summons

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet prosecutor's office issued a second summons to Alexander Solzhenitsyn today, but the author said he would not appear and refused to acknowledge the legality of the summons.

Solzhenitsyn has been the target of an official attack branding him a traitor since publication of his book on Stalinist labor camps, "Gulag Archipelago," and the action by the prosecutor was seen as a possible first step toward legally silencing the author.

The first summons was delivered to the apartment of Solzhenitsyn' wife on Friday but she refused to accept it because it did not state reason and did not have a registration number on the document.

The second summons was delivered to the apartment today and Solzhenitsyn immediately issued a statement saying, "In a situation of general illegality which for many years has existed in our country (and the personal eight-year campaign of slander and harassment of me) I refuse to acknowledge the legality of your summons and will not come for an interrogation to any state organ."

The statement, addressed to the procurator of the Soviet Union and made available to Western newspersons, said: "Before asking legality from citizens learn how to observe it yourself. Free the innocent from confinement.

"Punish those guilty of mass executions and false informers. Punish the administrators and the special organs which have performed genocide (exile of peoples). Remove from local and regional satraps today their unlimited power over citizens, the ordering about of courts. Satisfy millions of legal, but suppressed complaints."

Today's summons ordered Solzhenitsyn to report to the investigative division of the prosecutor's investigative division at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

15 injuries treated

Fifteen accident patients were treated over the weekend in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Four treated Friday were: Virginia Armstrong, 60, Sikeston, injured right arm in fall; Michael Helms, 6, Bertrand, cut left leg on cabinet door in fall; Lynnell Dupont, Sikeston, injured in car accident; and Cynthia Franklin, 16, Charleston, injured right foot playing basketball.

Firemen called to McMikle home

Firemen were called at 2:35 p.m. Saturday to the W. J. McMikle home, 224 Kramer Drive, when paper being burned in a fireplace built up at the top of the chimney and sent flames out the top.

Firemen said there was no damage.

At 9:05 p.m. Saturday, firemen were called to the parking lot of the IGA Foodliner when a car owned by Glen Rodgers of Matthews caught fire.

Firemen said there was considerable damage to the wiring and hoses in the engine.

Guard drive doing well

JEFFERSON CITY — Maj. Gen. Charles M. Kiefner, Missouri adjutant general, has announced that the initial reports from "Operation Fill-up" indicate that the National Guard can sustain its strength in the zero draft climate. "The fact that 131 people have enlisted during the first three days of our campaign to bring the Missouri National Guard to full strength is quite encouraging," Gen. Kiefner said.

Recruiters have conducted 953 interviews with prospective guardsmen — women since the campaign began last Sunday.

"The large number of people expressing an interest in the guard would indicate that we should successfully reach our objectives of 700 new members," Gen. Kiefner added.

Three of the new recruits are women as many of Missouri's units have openings for both men and women. Interested individuals should contact their local National Guard Armory, or call 314-636-6860, collect, for further details.

Overdue mother-to-be tired of remarks

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter and you will be the patron saint of every pregnant woman who has a mother, a mother- in- law, a sister, a sister- in- law, a nosy neighbor, a close friend, or a maiden aunt.

Dear Ones: Yes, I am overdue. Two days to be exact. My big mistake was telling you my due date. I wish I had kept my mouth shut. Today I received eight telephone calls and it's only supper time.

"Are you still home?" That was my aunt.

"I thought you'd be in the hospital by this time." That was my mother- in- law.

"Are you sure you figured right?" That was my sister.

"Maybe it's twins. Doctors don't know everything." That was my mother.

If YOU are on edge, how do you think I feel? It doesn't help to get a dozen phone calls from people who are worried about me. One friendly caller said, "When you're late, sometimes the water breaks at home and you have a dry birth which is awful." Sweet of her to tell me.

I just hope every person who telephones a pregnant woman and asks, "Are you still home?" will get this reply: "I answered the phone, didn't I?"-- D. Fenseless

Dear D.: Your message is clear? "Don't call me, honey, I'll call you."

Dear Ann Landers: My girlfriend fell off her shoe and broke her ankle. This is no joke. It actually happened. She was wearing a clog with a two-inch platform, a slingback, and a 4 1/2 inch cork heel.

Emergency rooms all over the country are treating dozens of people who limp in every day, and not all of them are women. Several men who are unaccustomed to the higher heel have tripped on curbs, escalators and staircases.

A word from you might help, Ann. Please say something.-- O. Z.

Dear O. Z.: I'll try, but I don't think I'll get anywhere. People have put style ahead of comfort and common sense for centuries. I see no evidence that it will ever change.

My advice to those who insist on wearing high- fashion cripplers is to walk slowly, stay sober and carry your hospital insurance card.

Dear Ann Landers: We are a group of welfare mothers who meet once a week to help one another with child- rearing problems.

Take it from those of us who know, welfare kids are discriminated against daily. They are begrudged free lunches, laughed at and taken advantage of by teachers who make them clean up the classrooms because they have free lunch cards.

Traumas experienced by welfare mothers and children are countless. However, our reason for writing is not to complain but to say thank you for your efforts to educate the public about welfare recipients. You've done a tremendous service and we are grateful to you.-- The Magnolia Parents Group In Houston

Dear Houston Friends: I'm glad you wrote. The mail ran heavily against me but I knew it would. The ignorance and bigotry in this country, particularly on this issue, is appalling. But I still feel it is better to light a single candle than to curse the darkness.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism-- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35c in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Otahki Girl Scouts acquire new camp

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Otahki Girl Scout Council, which serves girls in 10 southeast Missouri and southern Illinois counties, has announced acquisition of a new tract of land donated for council use and selection of a new executive director for the council.

Mrs. Donald Z. Barklage of Cape Girardeau, former council president and new executive director, said a gift of 100 acres of land, located off Cape LaCroix Road in Cape Girardeau, has been given as a permanent day camp and troop camping site by Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Harris of Cape Girardeau.

The land consistes of approximately 60 acres of clear and wooded acreage and a 40- acre lake known as Lake Hollenbeck.

Mrs. Barklage said the land was given to the council in late December. It is planned to hold day camp sessions there this summer, she said, and to use a concrete block building on the land for various council functions -- leader training, board meetings, committee meetings and the like.

"The building will not be for troop use," she said. "We want scouts to take advantage of the opportunity to tent camp."

There are two floating docks on the lake, which is heavily stocked with fish. Tests on lake water will begin soon to determine whether canoeing and other water activities can safely be included as part of day camp activities.

Mrs. Barklage succeeds Mrs. Muriel McArthur as executive director of the council. The spot had been vacant for several months. Mrs. Barklage was elected council president in November 1972 and has been active in scouting for many years on many levels.

Replacing her as council president is Mrs. Calvin Phillips of Jackson, a troop leader for 11 years and formerly first vice president of the council board of directors. At a council appreciation dinner in 1973, Mrs. Phillips was given the coveted Thanks Badge, the highest honor given an adult volunteer in scouting.

Mrs. Truman R. Cole Jr. of Cape Girardeau, is the council's new first vice president and Mrs. Richard Kogge of Cape Girardeau the second vice president. Another Cape resident, Terry Begley, was elected new council member- at- large.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Coal production in Kentucky continues to rise while the fatality rate of miners in relation to the amount of coal mined remains at last year's record low.

The Mines and Minerals Department reported coal output would reach more than the 120 million tons mined in 1973. Twenty-one persons have been killed in mining mishaps during 1973.

Prevention of dental problems begins early

By LAURENCE M. HURSH, M.D.
Consultant, National Daily Council

Your teeth are not "dead" material. The dentine and enamel of your teeth are inert. But the pulp of teeth contains nerves and blood vessels. Your teeth are fastened to bones by a membrane that also is living material. And the bony ridges of the upper and lower jaw in which your teeth are imbedded are alive.

This is National Children's Dental Health Week - the 27th successive year this event has been held. It is one of the most significant "weeks" or "days" held in America because the problem of dental health is so important to all of us -- and the best prevention of dental problems begins with children.

The science of dental health care is much improved since many of us were children. But there is still a great deal the individual must do for himself.

Like nutrition.

It really is quite simple to explain. But apparently more difficult to follow. The best diet for anyone, unless there are specific health problems that dictate otherwise, is the one based on the four food groups.

Roughly, this plan is that you should choose a wide variety of foods daily from these groups -- the meat group, the milk group, the fruits and vegetables, and breads and cereals. When you've made sure you aren't going to consume more calories than you should, then fats and oils come into play for added flavor and palatability.

For dental protection, stay away from sticky starches and sweets. Be careful of sugars generally, and watch the sweet drinks and sugary gums.

There is no substitute for brushing your teeth after every meal -- and knowing how to brush your teeth well. Your dentist will instruct you regarding additional precautions such as flossing.

Nutrition of the expectant mother has an important influence on the very young child's dental health. This is because teeth first develop as "buds" in the jawbone of the unborn child. The expectant mother can protect her own teeth and assure her baby of a good dental start by making sure she receives an adequate diet. Particularly she should get enough calcium and fluoride, along with other minerals, and vitamins.

For everyone, basic nutrition for dental health, of course, favors a diet that causes you to chew foods well. The exercise this gives gums and teeth is good for them. And make sure you get, along with other needed nutrients, enough calcium, phosphorus and vitamin D.

BLANKET PROPOSAL

Though most blanket statements have little value, here's one that can save you work and money and keep you extra warm during the cold months ahead:

Choose a pair of wool blankets and make them into draperies for your living room. By contrasting them with your wallpaper, paint or carpeting, you'll achieve a fresh, dramatic effect.

The mood can be delicately feminine--a white or pink "see-through" thermal blanket--or ruggedly masculine, using a strong solid color blanket--or one with a tartan or American Indian pattern.

Wool blanket "draperies" are a natural for the living room. Wool's inherent ability to hold moisture--up to 33 percent of its own weight--acts as a natural fire retardant. And the wool fiber itself acts as an insulator--it keeps the room's heat in and keeps the cold air out. You get all this when you buy a wool blanket with the Woolmark label on it, a meaningful blanket statement assuring you of a quality-tested product made of the world's best...Pure Wool!

SIKESTON, MO.

Major highway, transit program proposed

JEFFERSON CITY — A major proposal to aid mass transportation systems, provide for improved county roads and bridges and increase highway funds to cities, towns and villages is now under consideration by the Missouri House of Representatitives.

This transportation package is sponsored by James Conway, D-St. Louis, and provides a statewide fund to help finance mass transportation systems, county bridges and roads.

Conway noted: "For too many years the support of mass transportation in Missouri has been on a patchwork basis. The state has not taken an active role in developing an effective and desperately needed mass transportation financial aid plan for all our urban areas.

"This proposal will accomplish this and also increase assistance to our county road districts by providing money directly and by establishing a fund specifically for county bridge construction and improvements.

"These measures help to fulfill our pledge to the citizens of St. Louis, St. Louis County and Kansas City to provide long- term assistance to mass transportation systems replacing the one- half cent sales tax when it expires in December 1974," Conway added.

The proposal includes a constitutional amendment which would require voter approval, and a companion House bill that would become effective only upon approval of the constitutional amendment.

The constitutional amendment would allow diversion of gasoline tax money for use in mass transportation systems and county roads and bridges. However, it does not set the specifiv amount to be diverted.

The companion legislation would increase the gasoline tax by three cents a gallon to provide the revenue for diversion. Two cents is for mass transportation and the other cent is for counties to help in building and maintaining roads and bridges.

Conway pointed out that the Constitution provides 15 per cent of all gasoline tax revenue must go to cities directly, while another five per cent must go directly to the counties.

Since each cent of tax would raise an additional $28 million in revenue this would mean $84 million would be provided by the measure. Of this, $44.8 million would be for mass transportation, $26.8 million for counties and $12.6 million for cities.

The funds for mass transportation would be under the direction of the new State Department of Transportation which was created under the reorganization proposal just passed by the legislature. That department would set the rules and regulations for distribution of mass transportation money. They would also act as the agency through which federal matching funds for mass transit could be funneled.

The counties and cities would receive their funds under the present allocation formula provision of the Constitution. The State Highway Department would administer the County Bridge Improvement Fund which is created by the House Bill.

The bridge improvement fund would amount to eight and one third per cent of the $84 million. That money would be available to counties on the basis of need for improving county bridges.

Conway noted, "There are many instances in which a county needs to replace or rebuild a bridge, but the expense is so great the county simply cannot afford to have it done.

This fund would allow counties in this dilemma to apply to the State Highway Department for help from this special fund. Under this proposal the highway department would make grants for bridge construction on county roads each year on a priority basis.

This proposal has been approved by the St. Louis city and county administrations, the Bi-State Development Agency, the St. Louis County Municipal League, the Missouri Municipal League, the Area Transportation Authority of Kansas City and tentatively by the Kansas City administration.

31 per cent of written driver's exams failed

JEFFERSON CITY — Thirty- one per cent of the 378,872 written driver's license examinations taken in 1973 were failed, according to a summary from the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

The summary also showed that 21 per cent of the road tests given during the year were failed, while one per cent of the vision tests were not passed by the applicants.

New drivers, those who had never been licensed before, took 77 per cent of the examinations administered by the highway patrol in 1973. Out- of- state drivers moving into Missouri accounted for 17 per cent of the examinations, and five per cent of the examinations were given to drivers who had allowed their licenses to expire. Approximately one per cent of the examinations were given for drivers cited by the Director of Revenue and for the removing of restrictions.

The highway patrol also gives driver examinations to persons who desire to get their licenses qualified for the operation of a motorcycle. Last year, 26,812 "static" tests were given to such applicants. The main purpose of this type of test is to determine if the applicant is familiar with the controls of his machine. Less than one per cent of these tests were failed.

There were 26,623 "skill" motorcycle tests given by the patrol in 1973. Only two percent of these tests were failed by applicants. The "skill" test is employed to determine the applicant's skill and ability to maneuver a motorcycle in traffic.

The driver's license examination program in Missouri has been administered by the highway patrol since 1952.

Consumer Protection At its Best

THE HEALTH INSURANCE RACKET AND HOW TO BEAT IT. By John E. Gregg. Henry Regnery Co. 192 Pages. $6.95.

Did you ever wish, when buying something big, that you had a friend who was a combined detective, lawyer and product expert?

Well, John E. Gregg is just that: a former FBI man, a lawyer and a former salesman for health insurance. Unless you are covered already by a group plan, you probably will need this book before you buy health insurance to cover your hospital and doctor bills.

Gregg adopts an adversary status from the start. "Companies always delay claims payments as long as possible," he says. "Insurance companies operate to make as much money as they can. Paying claims contradicts this purpose."

The book begins with a discussion of the difference between company promises and what the company actually means. It warns of the importance of making sure that applications for insurance are complete and accurate, since a single misstatement or omission is reason for rejecting a claim.

Perhaps the most important single chapter is the "Guide to Buying Health Insurance," which lists 13 points to look out for. This alone is worth the price of the whole book.

But, if you have already bought your insurance, the next step is to collect your claim. This is taken care of in the chapters on "Negotiating the Red Tape" and "Bringing Pressure to Bear."

An extremely useful feature of the book is the inclusion of form letters to be written to insurance companies, state insurance officials (whose addresses are given), the Better Business Bureau and credit agencies.

Football tickets obtained for bill passage, Gray says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic congressman says he arranged for colleagues and congressional aides to buy at least 35 scarce season tickets to Washington Redskins football games last fall after helping win passage of a bill to increase the seating capacity at Redskins games.

Rep. Kenneth J. Gray, D-Ill., confirmed in a telephone interview that he arranged for 35 to 40 tickets. He said they were sold at cost to House members and congressional aides.

Nancy Vitali, of the subcommittee on buildings and grounds who distributed the tickets, and Richard Sullivan, chief counsel of the parent Public Works Committee, each used a figure of 60 tickets.

Gray is chairman of the subcommittee and a ranking member of the Public Works Committee.

In the interview, Gray complained that the seats were bad and said the Redskins, after promising a "fair and equitable distribution," had ignored his repeated requests for 250 seats.

Redskins president Edward Bennett Williams said he could not recall "any demand of that kind ever being made" by Gray or anyone on his staff.

He said that if priority was given to any congressman "it was in isolated cases, I suppose."

"It's entirely possible that there's as many as 40 or 60 that were sold, and I underscore sold, to members of Congress," Williams said. "I really don't know that and I really don't have an interest in finding out that."

But, he went on, "as far as making a bloc of tickets available to Congressman Gray, that is just ridiculous."

Redskins games regularly are sold out and there is little turnover in season tickets. There are more than 9,000 persons on a waiting list for such seats and during House debate last summer one congressman said thousands more would sign up if they had any hope tickets would become available.

That argument was presented by Gray and others during debate on a bill to permit private financing of 8,000 more seats at Robert F. Kennedy stadium, which, held 53,000 persons, one of the National Football League's smallest facilities.

After the bill passed and became law in July, Gray said he told the Redskins that Congress should be provided with at least 250 season seats as its "rightful share."

Gray said he sent the Redskins a list with 250 names on it and made half a dozen calls to find out where the tickets were. He said Mrs. Vitali made at least a dozen calls "not pressuring mind you, just asking."

Gray said the Redskins finally notified him on the Friday night before the season-opening game that 35 to 40 tickets were available.

He said Mrs. Vitali collected personal checks, including his own for about $1,100, turned them over to the Redskins and picked up the tickets. Gray said his check paid for tickets for members who were not reachable that night.

In the interview, Gray named four colleagues for whom he obtained tickets.

"Yeah, I got a couple from Ken," said Melvin Price, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ethics Committee.

Highlights and sidelights

Attention turns to regular session

JEFFERSON CITY — The special session behind them, Missouri's legislators have turned their attention to a mountainous stack of legislation that has been introduced for the regular session that will end April 30.

In action last week:

The Senate Municipal Corporations Committee tabled a proposed constitutional amendment to reduce the present majority required for passage of general obligation and revenue bond issues.

The measure, introduced by Rep. Jack Gant (D-Independence), would lower to 60 per cent the majority needed for passage of general obligation bond issues and require a simple majority for the passage of revenue bond issues. A two-thirds majority is needed for passage of general obligation bond issues at the present time, and a four- sevenths majority is required for approval of revenue bond issues.

A similar constitutional amendment was defeated in a statewide vote in 1968.

The House Judiciary Committee heard news media representatives testify in favor of a bill that would give reporters the right to refuse to testify or produce evidence in court proceedings. However, the committee took no action on the proposed reporter's shield law.

Among the witnesses speaking in favor of the bill were Roy Fisher, dean of the School of Journalism, University of Missouri-Columbia, Robert Hardy, director of public affairs for KMCX radio, St. Louis, and William A. Bray, executive director of the Missouri Press Association.

Rep. John A. Sharp (R-Kansas City), a sponsor of the legislation, said the proposed law would prove valuable in the investigation of organized crime and government because informants would be more willing to talk to reporters if they knew the names would not be revealed.

A proposed revision of the state's 67- year - old anti- trust law suffered a setback in the Senate where an amendment was approved to limit to $36,000 the amount the Attorney General may spend on anti-trust investigations. The Senators also voted to remove from the bill a section that would have given the attorney General the power to subpoena individuals in anti-trust investigations.

An amendment that would have restricted the investigation of anti-trust cases only to firms involved in intrastate commerce was narrowly defeated.

Kermit W. Almstedt, the only anti-trust assistant on Attorney General John C. Danforth's staff, charged that the Senate action had left the bill little better than the existing law.

The fate of a second attempt to secure the General Assembly's approval of the federal Equal Rights Amendment remained uncertain after a four- hour Senate Rules Committee hearing.

Both proponents and opponents of the controversial amendment to the U. S. Constitution turned out in large numbers for the hearing, but Sen. Lawrence J. Lee (D-St. Louis), the committee chairman, postponed a vote on the measure.

A total of 38 states would have to ratify the proposed amendment for it to become law. So far, the measure has been approved in 32 states.

Gov. Bond has issued a statement favoring ratification.

The House gave tentative approval to a bill that would allow all public employes except law enforcement personnel to bargain collectively after a day- long debate.

Exempted in the bill are police officers, deputy sheriffs, highway patrolmen and national guardsmen.

Rep. Daniel O'Toole (D-St. Louis) is the sponsor of the bill.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Nobody Likes Bad Breath

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What, in most instances, causes bad breath? If a person has bad breath, how should he be told? And what should he do if he is already using mouth wash, breath refresheners, etc.? Can it usually be prevented by keeping the bowels open? How can a person know whether or not he has bad breath?

Dear Reader — How to tell a person he has bad breath depends a lot on your relationship to the individual. Usually you do the person a favor by telling him because, if he isn't told, he often doesn't know it. Bad breath can detract significantly from either a man's or woman's appearance and limit their business and personal opportunities. No one likes to be knocked over with strong breath.

Doing something about it isn't always so easy. The first step is finding out what causes it. This means a fairly good medical examination. Bad breath can be caused by poor teeth, particularly pyorrhea and infections around the teeth. Even though the teeth may be regularly brushed, the pyorrhea process will continue to produce bad odors unless it is properly treated. Some individuals are careful about brushing the teeth but pay no attention to the tongue. It accumulates food products and is often a source of bad breath. You can brush the tongue just as you brush the teeth and a little tooth paste on the brush will help.

Some individuals have ear, nose, and throat problems, including old, infected tonsils, infected sinuses and sinusitis. It may be necessary to remove diseased tonsils, or improve the drainage from the sinuses through proper treatment. Infected sinuses may need medication.

Below this level you could have changes in the breath associated with the body chemistry. There are persons with uncontrolled diabetes or advanced liver disease who can be detected by their breath because of chemical changes. The expired air contains some of these chemicals and you can smell them, just as you can smell alcohol on a person's breath.

Certain diseases of the lungs, particularly associated with infections, can cause bad breath. Then there is the large group of digestive disturbances which contribute to the problem. Some women have this problem, particularly at the time of their menses or just before their menstrual periods.

As you can see, it is not such a simple problem as you might imagine, and the first step is a good medical examination, which should include an evaluation of the sinuses, teeth, lungs and digestive tract as possible sources of the bad breath.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I had a mole removed from under my arm in 1967. Now, I notice this mole has grown back in the same place. Is this something I should worry about? It is in an awkward place. That's why I had it removed in the first place. Please give me your advice on this matter.

Dear Reader — By all means go back to your doctor and let him examine it. Anyone who has had a mole removed, and it recurs in the same spot, should have it looked at as soon as possible. Any mole which is in an awkward place, as you described it, meaning a place where it can be irritated such as being shaved or rubbed by a strap or belt, should be removed anyway.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's new booklet on spastic colon, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Spastic Colon" booklet.

The most gigantic ice cream sundae made was one comprising 600 pounds of ice cream dripping with 34 quarts of chocolate sauce, topped out with 153 ounces of chopped nuts, valued at $720.

Tire safety tips

Properly inflated tires not only mean better car control, they mean better gas mileage, says the Tire Industry Safety Council. Underinflated tires squirm, causing increased roll resistance, which makes the engine work harder and use more fuel.

* * *

Properly balanced tires improve steering control. Uneven weight distribution can cause tires to hop or shimmy.

* * *

A tire changing check now may save you time and trouble when you need your car in an emergency, says the Tire Industry Safety Council. Make sure your jack works and your spare tire is properly inflated. Then make sure you know how to put it on.

* * *

For safety's sake, make sure your new tires are registered by the seller, as required by law. If a defect is later found in any tires of the same production run, the manufacturer can notify you.

* * *

Under- or overinflation can cause erratic steering and possible damage to tires which may lead to an accident. Check air pressure regularly, the Tire Industry Safety Council says.

* * *

Radial tire punctures can only be repaired if they occur in the tread between the two major outer grooves, and only if the puncture is less than 1/4 inch in diameter, tire experts say.

* * *

The Tire Industry Safety Council recommends placing new tires on the rear axle. Studies show vehicles in accidents more often have worn tires in the rear.

THE FAMILY CIRCUS — By Bil Keane

"Mommy! Guess what it did outside last night!"

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Feb. 11, the 42nd day of 1974. There are 323 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, the World War II Yalta Agreement was signed by President Franklin Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin.

On this date:

In 1543, King Henry VIII of England and the Holy Roman Emperor, Charles V, signed a treaty of alliance against France.

In 1744, French and Spanish ships defeated an English fleet off the Mediterranean port of Toulon.

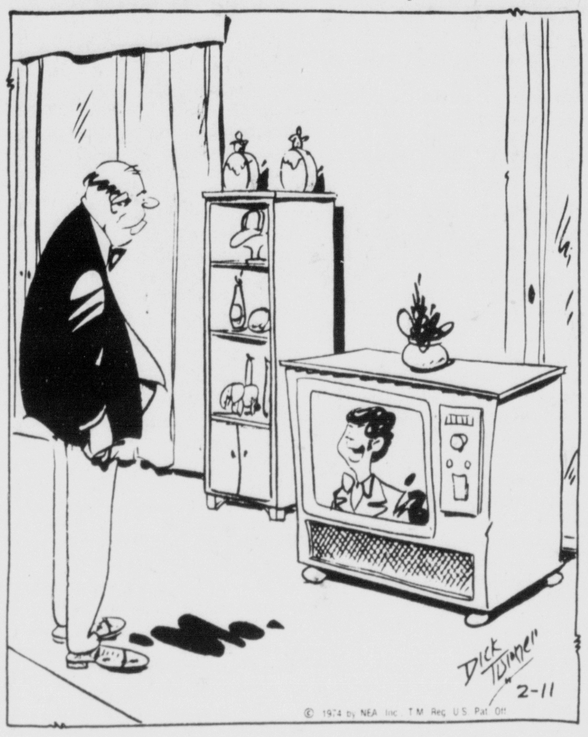

In 1808, hard coal was first used as fuel— at Wilkes- Barre, Pa.

In 1848, the inventor, Thomas Edison, was born in Milan, Ohio.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Commodity futures prices were strong on the Chicago Board of Trade today, with soybean oil again advancing the limit of 100 points, or 1 cent a pound.

The demnd for soy oil appeared to be a carryover from last Friday when prices closed 100 points higher and many purchase orders remained to be filled. Bids on the opening were at limits higher and trade stalled at that point in nearby options.

The demand for soybean oil sparked a strong buying move in soybeans and produced a rise of some 13 cents a bushel.

Wheat rose 15 cents a bushel at one time while corn advanced 4 cents and oats almost as much.

After about an hour, wheat futures were 7 to 11 cents a bushel higher, March 5.92; corn was 1½ to 3¼ higher, March 3.06; oats were 2 to 3¼ higher, March 1.69¼ and soybeans were 4 to 8 higher, March 6.54.

"We didn't get a free gift when we switched to First National Bank, and we really appreciate it."

We switched to First National Bank about 3 years ago on the advice of a friend. We'd just gotten married and had a lot of financial questions.

We'd seen "free" plastic coolers, cameras, silver-plated pie servers, china and other gimmicks in the ads. But we didn't want a "free" gift. We wanted a bank that understood the money problems young couples has.

Larry and I were impressed with the personal efficient service, and having our own officer to answer all our questions.

True, the president didn't come out with a "free" ice bucket or a pie-server. But our officer at First National Bank saved us money on our auto loan, set up a security savings plan for our first child and showed us how to earn an extra $60.00 a year on our savings. That sure beats a free pie-server or even a dozen ice buckets or other gimmicks.

Colts sign Berra

BALTIMORE (AP) — With the tape recorders turned on and the film cameras ready to roll, Joe Thomas was given his cue:

"Gentlemen," said the general manager of the Baltimore Colts, "the press conference, as you know, is to announce the signing of Tim Berra, wide receiver."

When the unusual Sunday conference was opened to questions, however, most were directed toward Berra's famous father—baseball immortal Yogi Berra, who now manages the New York Mets.

"Tim doesn't say much," Yogi had said earlier. "His coach at Massachusetts told me that. And, the trainer said he never saw him. He plays hurt."

"That's the kind of player we like," Thomas said. "We don't want those who are too familiar with the trainers."

Later, at the conference, Thomas gave young Berra extremely high marks for his raw talent and dedication, while conceding his size didn't meet normal National Football League standards.

"Tim runs excellent pass routes and has great hands," Thomas said. "He'll catch anything near him. But the main thing is his dedication to the game, and his willingness to learn."

At the University of Massachusetts, the 5-foot-11, 184-pound Berra caught 62 passes last season for 930 yards and 13 touchdowns, and also returned kicks. After the regular season, he played in the North-South and American Bowl games.

Coach Dick MacPherson of Massachusetts said recently that Berra's size and speed didn't merit his being chosen any higher than the 17th round where he was picked by the Colts.

"If you put Tim Berra in one of those computers," MacPherson said, "he'd be a washout. But this kid is something special. Whatever he has, he uses. He's just a super achiever."

Two recent 17th-round picks, running back Don Nottingham in 1971 and linebacker Stan White in 1972, stuck with the Colts and Thomas noted that two free agents made the squad last season.

Tim, 22, played baseball in high school and prep school, but concentrated on football when he reached college.

Yogi, on the other hand, said he had played touch football in the streets and tackle on the sandlots while growing up in "The Hill" section of St. Louis.

"I played center on offense," Yogi said. "But I liked it when the other team had the ball, so I could tackle."

Poplar Bluff's Jeff Jones (24) heads for the basket with SHS cagers, Mark Eaves (54) and Mike Bohannon (42) in hot pursuit during the championship game of the Sikeston JV invitational Saturday night.

PHS wins

PERRYVILLE — Deral Niswonger hit a bucket with four seconds left in overtime to give the PHS Pirates a 71-70 SEMO conference win over the Jackson Indians here Friday night.

The game was an evenly matched affair in the first period with Jackson coming up short by one point 17-16. The Pirates had trouble with the Indian defense in the second quarter and Jackson overtook PHS and forged ahead at the half 34-29.

Each team featured balanced scoring from four of their starters as Niswonger and Brewer dumped in 22 points apiece for the Pirates and John Mize and Clay Vanguilder scored 20 and 18 points respectively for the Indians.

Perryville kept the heat on Jackson in the last two periods and finally tied the game just before the buzzer ending the regulation time.

Jackson took the lead in the overtime period only to have Niswonger hit for two points.

Perryville scored eight points in the overtime period and Jackson hit seven.

Jackson won the B game 50-45 with Law hitting 16. Wayne Hahn scored 20 for Perryville.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)— Dick Toomey, 27, a former Boston University star, is the new head coach of Brown's varsity hockey team.

Toomey, the Brown freshman coach for two years, was awarded the varsity job on a permanent basis Sunday. He had been named "interim" coach last Thursday when J. Allan Soares was fired for alleged failure to control the conduct of Brown players on the ice.

Mules claim title

Mark Eaves scored 20 points and grabbed 24 rebounds, but it wasn't enough. Ron Priday connected on a dozen of his fifteen freethrows for 18 points, but that wasn't enough either as the Sikeston junior varsity ran into a tenacious and emotional bunch of Poplar Bluff Mules and dropped only their second game of the year, 66- 62 in overtime during the championship of the Sikeston JV invitational Saturday night.

The Mules came out for the game emotionally up and enthusiastically slapping at all loose balls. The game they were using was the most physical Sikeston had faced all year. Sikeston had taken the Mules in the "more important" conference game the night before and for a while they looked like they might have taken the second-seeded Mules too lightly. But winning the Sikeston invitational was important to the team and coach Buddy Spears. They had dropped only one of their fourteen games coming in, so they tried to join the aggressive Mules in their more spirited defense. The result was more of a free throw shooting contest than a ballgame. The teams combined for sixty fouls and 79 free throws and a real fine crowd was treated to somewhat less than a real fine ballgame.

The tournament champions won the game from the floor, where they took 23 more shots than Sikeston and hit four of them. The effective Mule press was responsible for the many of the added shots, even though Poplar Bluff actually made more turnovers than the losers, 22- 19. Sikeston also outrebounded Poplar Bluff, 49- 33, in the fourth game in five days for both teams. However, it seemed that the hustling Mules owned each loose ball and every jump ball in the night's action and even continuous pressure in the defense for Sikeston couldn't erase the Poplar Bluff lead and salvage the win.

Bluff established control of the game early. Stealing the ball and presenting an inpenatrable wall on defense, they ran up a 10- 4 lead before Sikeston finally was able to make a dent in their defense and narrow the score to one point by quarter's end, 14- 13. Sikeston had led at 13-12 and that was the last time they were to enjoy that status until less than two minutes were left in the contest.

The eventual winners had expanded their margin to four at half, 34- 30, having the lead grow to as much as six during the quarter. Again it was the Mule press that was unnoticeably bugging the Sikeston guards and causing them to throw the ball away enough times to hold the score down. Also in the quarter there started the seemingly endless procession on the part of both teams to the free throw line. Poplar Bluff used fifteen free throw attempts to hit ten free throws for half of their 20 points.

After what was probably an interesting halftime chat with Coach Spears, the Sikeston jayvees came out with a determined look on each face. They had beaten these guys the night before and, with Eaves enjoying a fine night, they were determined to do it again! Unfortunately, it was a good idea for Sikeston, but PB wasn't having any of it. They expanded the lead to as large as seven before hanging on to a three point, 47- 44, lead entering the last frame.

In the last period Sikeston started to turn it around. They dropped their press and moved back into a zone, as they had done much of the third period. Letting Poplar Bluff bring the ball downcourt, but stopping the fast-break baskets, the poor- shooting Mules slowly but surely began to lose their grip on the game. The Bulldogs, led by Priday, were more successful at the free throw line and the difference began to tell in that quarter. Sikeston tied it for the first time at 52- all. And, they led 58- 57 and had the ball with 13 seconds left when Poplar Bluff committed a desperation foul. Sikeston hit just one of the two shots they were allotted and the Mules raced down court, threw up a wild shot and it dropped through with less than three seconds left. A courtlength Sikeston shot was way short and the two teams were tied, 59- 59.

After thinking they had the game won, the Sikeston team. was dejected and the Mules, playing without pivotman Bill Turner, once again applies the pressure and simply regained the momentum they had established earlier to outscore the Bulldogs 7- 3, upset the top- seeded Bulldogs and surprise an enthusiastic Sikeston crowd that had been on its feet since the first part of the fourth quarter.

The Mules had three in double figures, led by 5- foot-10 Jeff Jones' 15. Steve Threlkeld scored 14 and Tracy Edington added 11.

Sikeston was led by Eaves' 20. Priday, doing most of his scoring from the charity line, added 18-- his top game of the year.

Sikeston's record dropped to 13- 2. Poplar Bluff earned victory number nine to go with six losses. The win for Sikeston in the previous night's game insured at least a Bulldog tie for the conference championship, the first of any kind for a Bulldogs basketball team since 1968- 69. The next and last conference game for Sikeston will be February 22nd against Cape Central, there. Before that SHS will face Richland next Tuesday and Blytheville a week later.

In the first game Saturday night, Cape Central used a good defense and some fine fourth quarter shooting to come from behind and defeat upset- minded Charleston, 49- 47. Charleston had led most of the game, and even held a five point lead in the fourth period. But, Cape used a tough pressing defense to come from way back and clinch the win on two late free throws.

New Vitamin "E" Plus "C" Diet Gives Fast Weight Loss

LOS ANGELES (Special)— New scientific discoveries have now produced a Vitamin E Plus "C" diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon and eggs and still lose weight.

Very Hi-Potency vitamin "E" Plus "C" tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that quickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wondrous benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin "E" Plus "C" Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical tests, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin "E" Plus "C".

North upset

CARUTHERSVILLE--- The Daily Standard's newest addition to its weekly high school basketball poll, sixth ranked North Pemiscot, fell to that season long run of bad luck that seems to haunt the new member and got initiated real quick when the Delta C-7 Chargers knocked off the Mustangs 47-45 Saturday night for the championship of the Bootheel Conference tournament. The NPHS junior varsity claimed their division honor with a 51-49 decision over South Pemiscot.

Delta C-7, one of the district's most improved class A teams, tuned up for next week's regional at Clarkton with this title win, breaking ahead 12-10 in the first quarter before charging from behind for a 15-9 fourth quarter edge and the championship.

Larry Blankenship and Mike Meade shared the leadership for the Chargers, scoring 11 points each as balance was the key to the DC-7 offense. Jerry Stewarter led all scorers on the night with his 22 markers for the Chargers.

The Mustangs JV unit withstood a fourth quarter South charge to preserve their victory. South Pemiscot out-pointed their North opponents 17-11 in the final period but fell two points short.

Mike Blackman led the Mustangs offense with 25 points while South Pem's Joe Martin hit 28 for game high honors.

Southeast loses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tarkio stunned highly regarded William Jewell, 57-53 in overtime, Saturday to grab the lead in the Heart of America basketball derby while Southwest Missouri was stalled in its quest for the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association title when it was defeated by Central Missouri, 84-77.

Tarkio's Jerry Lapsley scored a basket with four seconds left to tie the game 51-all and send it into overtime. Del Morley hit a basket and Jim Martin and Steve Breazier had two free throws each in the extra stanza to raise the Owls record to 7-1 and drop Jewell's mark 7-2.

Ottawa moved into third in the HOA by cruising past Central Methodist, 94-83, with Greg Bell scoring 24 points and Bob Lusk 20 for the Braves. In the other conference game, Baker trounced Graceland, 74-49.

Central Missouri used a balanced attack, with four men in double figures, to upset Southwest, 84-77. Dana Elwell was high for the Mules with 18 points while Daryel Garrison had 28 for Southwest, which went to 6-2 in the MIAA.

Northwest Missouri edged Southeast Missouri, 66-65, and Missouri Rolla blasted Northeast Missouri, 94-74, in the other association play. Lincoln University went outside the MIAA and absorbed a 83-62 beating at the hands of potent Kentucky State.

Among the independents, Drury scored an impressive 74-55 over Marymount of Salina, Kan., while Missouri-Kansas City topped Culver-Stockton, 90-76.

Rockhurst dropped a 95-83 decision to Nebraska Omaha and Missouri St. Louis was downed by Western Illinois, 97-81.

Southwest Baptist turned back State College of Arkansas, 89-84, and Park College nipped Bible Baptist, 77-76.

HANOVER, N. H. (AP)— Dartmouth College is the champion of its annual Winter Carnival ski meet for the 36th time.

The host Big Green piled up 146 points during the three-day, four event meet which concluded Saturday. Middlebury was second followed by 1973 champion Vermon.

TRCC loses lead

POPLAR BLUFF — Three Rivers Community College failed to put it all together Saturday night and dropped their lead in the Missouri Junior College Athletic Conference race, bowing to Forrest Park 78-74.

Coach Gene Bess' TRCC Raiders, bidding for the school's sixth straight league title, fell behind early and never regained their composure against their tall and talented opponents.

Warren Wynn, a big 6-foot-9 postman, dropped in 20 points to lead the upset victory of the Raiders and throw the league race back into a three way deadlock. Albri Cassell hit 17 to pace the Raiders offense, which included three other players with double figure marks.

Zalma wins 1st

ZALMA Action in the Zalma Invitational Tourney here Saturday night saw the Zalma Bulldogs take the first place trophy over the Leopold Wildcats 58-57 in what could have been anybody's ballgame.

The Greenville Bears earned the third place trophy claiming a dominating victory 88-59 win over the College High Preps in the second game of the night. The Naylor Eagles claimed the fifth place position in a consolation game over St. Vincent 62-49.

In the first place title game, the Zalma Bulldogs held a one point 16-15 lead over the Leopold Wildcats at the end of the first quarter, and increased their hold in the second period by two points with 28-26 halftime score. The lead changed hands in their quarter when the Wildcats outscored the Bulldogs by six points scoring 16 points to the Bulldogs ten points, bringing a 42-38 score at the end of the third quarter. In the fourth quarter it was anybody's game with both teams battling it out, but in the final seconds of the game the Bulldogs got the points when they needed them and came out with the one point advantage over the Wildcats 58-57.

Kerry Mondy hit 22 points to lead the Bulldogs to their victory. David Kirkpatrick and Micky West each contributed 12 points.

Leon Eestink clawed the hardest for Leopold scoring 18 points. Mark Eftink and Gerald Janson scored 12 points apiece. In the third place title game, the Greenville Bears jumped out to an early 25-17 lead over the CHS Preps and continued their hold with a 29-14 lead at the end of the second period bringing the half-time score to 54-31.

Things remained the same in the third quarter for the Bears as they claimed a nine point 22-13 lead. Not until the fourth quarter did the Preps show any improvement as they outscored the Bears by three points, but by then the Bears had the game put away 88-59.

Louis McClean did most of the damage for the Bears scoring 30 points, followed by Ron Porter, who contributed 19 points. The Preps only saw two teammates hit double-figure scoring with 12 points made by Mike Brown, and Luke Cano hit ten points, followed by Vines with nine points.

In the consolation game, St. Vincent got a slow start only scoring six points compared to the Eagle's 17 points at the end of the first quarter. The Spartans made a comeback in the second quarter, overpowering the Eagles by six points with a 20-14 second quarter score, but the Eagles still had the game, claiming a 31-26 half-time lead.

The Eagles continued their lead throughout the third quarter 22-11. The Spartans were able to outscore the Eagles 12-9 at the end of the fourth quarter but wasn't nearly enough as the Eagles ended out in front 62-49.

Ronald White flew the highest for Naylor scoring 25 points, followed by Emmons with 14 points.

Randy Harris was the high man for St. Vincent with 18 points, and Tim Rigden contributed 14 points to the Spartan's efforts.

Kansas collision

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The eyes of Kansas—and all Big Eight Conference basketball fans—will be in Manhattan Wednesday night when secondplace Kansas State plays host to the high-flying Kansas Jayhawks.

The stage was set Saturday when the league-leading Jayhawks went to 7-0 in the conference by cruising past Oklahoma State 80-71 in Stillwater and the Wildcats peppered Iowa State 72-56 at Ames.

Third-place Oklahoma, 6-2, bested Colorado 81-70 to complete the top triumvirate's somination away from home. Nebraska, 3-4, made Missouri an exception by stopping the visiting Tigers, 75-58, in Lincoln.

Missouri, 1-5, travels to Iowa State, 2-7, Monday night and Nebraska goes to Colorado, 3-5 Tuesday night in a faint crescendo to Wednesday night's main bout.

K-State will have to find a way to cope with KU's Danny Knight, who scored 34 points against OSU, 1-7. Kevin Fitzgerald had 20 for the Cowboys.

Kansas must contend with the two-ronged Wildcat attack of guards Lon Kruger and Danny Beard. Kruger scored 18 points and Beard 10 and both exhibited outstanding floor play against ISU, which was sparked by Larry Lotts' 13 points and 12 rebounds.

"You win by 16 points on the road and you have to be happy," said Wilcat Coach Jack Hartman. "But you can't afford to let up in the first half again—not if we want to be considered title contenders," he added, pointing to Wednesday's battle.

Dear Mr. Editor:

I would like to thank you for your printing the many UFO articles that have appeared in the Standard. I feel that it is not a subject to be laughed at nor mimiced. It cannot be proved that UFOs are from other planets or galaxies, but, if proof can be provided that they are not it would be welcomed. The people that have seen "flying saucers" are not losing their minds or always seeing weather balloons, clouds, or "swamp gases." I personally have seen a few and I am sane as far as I know. I would sincerely like to hear from anybody (sceptic or not) on the subject of FLYING SAUCERS.

Thank you,

Dear Mr. Terrell:

What a unique and delightful "All Night Sale" held at your store on Friday, January 25. I am sure it caught the imagination and attention of many Sikeston residents, as well as the surrounding communities.

We have heard many good reports about the "All Night Sale", the outstanding music furnished by Mr. Arnie Stone and the good refreshments served to everyone attending the sale. We also wish to extend our sincere thanks to Arnie Stone for the $16.64 he donated personally to the Missouri Special Olympics.

We are certainly grateful that you chose to donate the proceeds of this unusual sale to the Fifth Annual Missouri Special Olympics. Your gift of $113.00 will pay for lodging, food, insurance, uniforms, medals, etc. for 7 children from this area. Last year almost 200 children from Special Education classes and State Training Schools participated in the Regional Meet and 30 participants went on to the State Meet.

We are anticipating another successful Meet this year and are very appreciative of your support.

Book Review

Margaret Mitchell's classic novel, GONE WITH THE WIND, is now available from Avon Boooks in two separate paperback editions, as a large-format, 5"x8" Flare book ($3.95), and as a rack- sized Avon book ($1.95).

Avon paid Macmillan, the hardcover publisher, $400,000 for paperback rights to the title, one of the highest sums ever paid for re- negotiated rights on a single book.

The Avon purchase adds yet another record to GWTW's list of superlatives. One of the most- popular and bestselling books of all time, it sold a staggering 176,000 copies in the first week of sale in 1936; and has since sold approximately 15,000,000 copies in all its editions. It won the Pulitzer Prize in 1937; it has been translated into 16 foreign languages, Braille, and talking book forms; it has been made into one of Hollywood's most successful pictures, and has recently been made into a musical.

6 months after slaying, co-eds still live in fear

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP) — It's been six months now since the slaying of Teresa Sue Hilt, popular, long-haried co-ed at Northwest Missouri State University. But women students who live off-campus, are still keeping their doors locked.

The reason is they know the murder of the pretty blonde coed hasn't been solved.

They remember she was found naked, face-down on her bed, under a neatly arranged sheet.

The girl, better known as "Tess" had been strangled and stabbed in the chest and lower abdomen. Her pantyhose had been tied around her neck and her wrists bound with shoelaces. The paring knife used in the crime—a knife from Tess' kitchen—was found cupped in her hand.

Sgt. Jim Wright, a detective on the Maryville police department, has been assigned to find the killer. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hilt of Chillicothe. Her father is a state highway department employe and her mother is a realtor. They hired a Kansas City attorney to make an investigation for them and he told them finally "All you can do is just keep praying they find the killer." The parents complain they have not always been kept abreast of the investigation but acknowledge officers are "trying hard" in the case.

Even a reward fund of $2,642 hasn't brought in any new information, officials say.

Wright, who has been working on the case about four months, said he believes the killer was a woman. He noted the killer cleaned up most of the blood from the apartment and covered the slain girl neatly.

"This was too neat a job to have been done by a man," he said.

Wright, has interviewed more than 200 persons, taken fingerprints of some 150 individuals and had six persons take lie detector tests. Authorities said the polygraph tests showed none of those persons, including Edward Happel, 19, who had dated the Hilt girl, had guilty knowledge of the crime.

Tess' body was found on the afternoon of Aug. 4 when Happel, puzzled because she did not answer the telephone, went to her apartment in the College Gardens Apartment complex just east of the university campus. Tess had been at a party until 10 or 11 on the evening of Aug. 3 and then went to Happel's apartment, in the same complex. She left there at 2 on the morning of Aug. 4 when two friends came to see Happel. She told the trio she was going to her apartment, just 60 feet away in another building across the grassy area.

Wright said he believes she met her murder —someone she knew—in that short space. Wright said two of the three adjoining apartments were occupied but no one heard any unusual sound or disturbance in the Hilt apartment.

Authorities have devoted considerable attention to a thesis Tess was writing, dealing with alcohol and drug use on the Maryville campus. Her parents complain they have never been allowed to see the document.

Officials checked tape recordings made by Tess also . In most of them she just sang or talked but never mentioned any names. The tapes sometimes touched on her interviews with alcoholics.

The autopsy showed Tess was a virgin and Investigator Wright says this reinforces his belief a woman was the killer.

The Hilts say Tess would take an occasional drink and Wright said he had confirmed the girl was not much of a drinker. "She'd take one drink at a party and nurse the drink all evening long," he said.

What's the law?

The case of the talented husband

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When it came to juggling books and records, Alfredo could have gotten a job with Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus. He was so proficient at it, in fact, that over a period of time he managed to embezzle over $150,000 from the company for which he worked and received only compliments on his bookkeeping talents.

But then, one day, there was an audit and that was it. Alfredo and his talents were shipped off to the pokey for his skulduggery.

Meanwhile, back at home, Alfredo's lovely wife, who had been totally oblivious to her husband's hanky- panky, was being harassed by the government. Since Alfredo had no money to pay taxes, the Internal Revenue Service insisted that she pay the income taxes due on the embezzled funds.

"Since you signed a joint return with Alfredo," she was told, "you're just as responsible for all taxes due on unreported income."

"You're mad!" retorted Alfredo's wife. "I had no idea my husband was an embezzler. Nor did I see a penny of his tainted money. As for the joint return, I did what every other American wife does. My husband gave me the form, told me to sign it and I did. That doesn't make me responsible. It only makes me naive like every other wife."

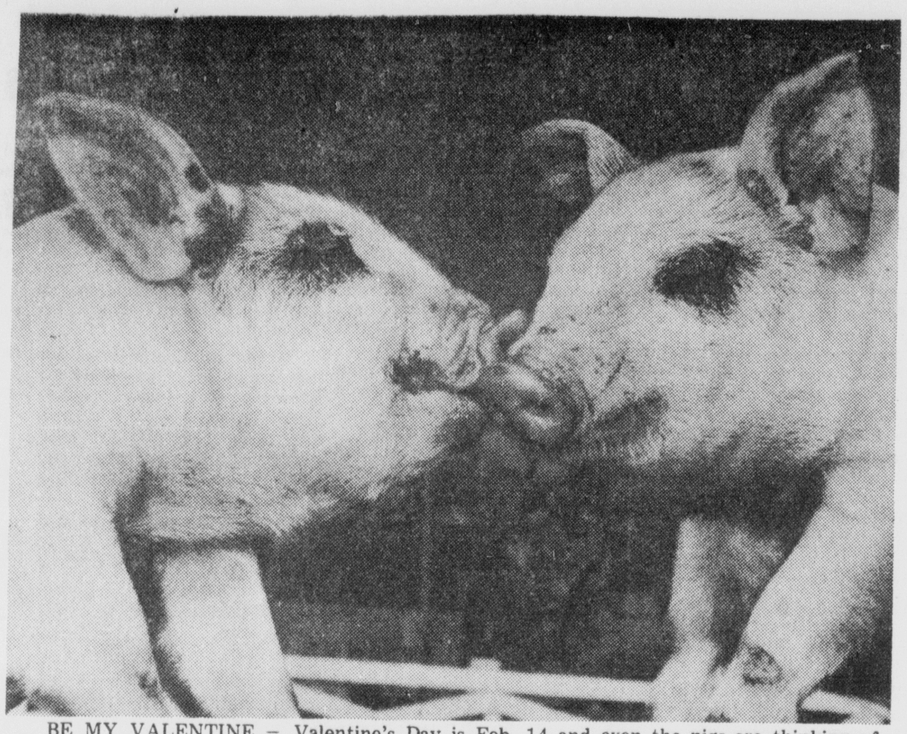

The dispute ended up in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Alfredo's wife pay the tax due?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that in signing a joint income tax return, in the absence of fraud, the parties so signing become individually and jointly responsible for its accuracy and for the total tax due under the return whether properly reported or not.

And, concluded the judge, a husband's failure to tell his wife that their joint return does not include monies embezzled by him does not constitute such fraud.

(Based upon a 1970 United States Tax Court Decision)

BE MY VALENTINE – Valentine's Day is Feb. 14 and even the pigs are thinking of romance. These affectionate porkers were photographed on the farm of Ralph Linhardt, Route 4, Sedalia, who raises pigs for the MFA Tel-O-Auction. The pigs are a Hampshire and Yorkshire cross.

Prayer for today
from the Upper Room

Put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ. (Romans 13:14)

PRAYER: O Lord, You know my weakness and my selfishness. Come into my heart through faith and shape me after Your will. Let Your will be done in my heart in such a way that I can love my fellowmen as You love them. Amen.

Many sea gulls follow the plow rather than go to sea. Sea gulls seldom venture beyond landfall, and few visit the empty stretches of the ocean. But they often show up hundreds of miles inland to scavenge city dumps, pick up worms behind plows, and nest in woodland treetops.
